No Clinching Was Needed Not Oldest; Most Useful Unimportant Victory Some Things, Self-Taught

"Eighty-five New York delegates and 50 Pennsylvania delegates going to Landon," was yesterday afternoon's news that "clinched" the Landon nomination for anybody who did not know that it was already "clinched."

More important news indicated that one very important Republican, Senator Borah, will have an opportunity to tell the delegates and the world at large anything that he may care to say.

Representatives of Governor Landon insist that whoever has a right to speak must be heard and want the speaking done, not in a back-room, but on the convention floor, where everybody may hear.

Somebody suggested that the oldest active Republican in America should sit on the platform in Cleveland.

To this suggestion, made by Bruce Barton, someone replied:

"The oldest member of the Republican party is John D. Rockefeller."

There must be older Republicans than John D. Rockefeller living, but there is no other that, having worked hard all his life, still works hard, after giving more than FIVE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS to science, education and fight against disease.

A few more "old Republicans" of that kind would help.

"The United States polo team beats England." Gratifying, not important. Riding on ponies and knocking a little white ball over the grass means little more than good exercise, and your picture in the paper.

If plucky young Americans of the polo team had beaten Englishmen, Italians, Frenchmen, Russians and Germans in the air, that would be worth while.

Some of the young gentlemen will doubtless decide to move up high above the grass, where courage and skill are important.

An important educator tells New York students: "The important business of schools is to build leaders."

Unfortunately, you cannot "build leaders": they must build themselves, and they can only do it by leading, just as they can learn to swim only by swimming.

If you could teach men to think and lead, that would simplify many problems; unfortunately, you can do neither. Thought and leadership are self-taught.

Edward the Eighth, new King of England, goes through all the "motions" that have to do with being a king and does it good-naturedly. Dressed in his scarlet and gold kilted uniform as colonel of the Seaforth Highlanders, he rode through London in his state carriage of gold with no fewer than four footmen sitting on it. An Irish guard of honor presented arms, and while the King sat on his throne "God Save the King" was played.

England believes in keeping up old customs.

Mr. Dewey, who sent the head of New York's vice ring and eight well-paid assistants to prison, to stay as long as they live, unless they can buy their way out, says one of his assistants was offered a New York Supreme Court judgeship if he would reveal the prosecution's secrets. The offer was backed with another offer to put up $250,000 cash to guarantee that the judgeship would be forthcoming.

The idea of offering a Supreme Court judgeship in return for favors to criminals is new.

Citizens will wonder who was able to offer the judgeship, with a quarter of a million dollar guarantee; and whether judgeships have ever been disposed of in this fashion before.

France has a new problem. Extreme radicals that won the election demand and get the forty-hour week for French workers, with no cut in wages. If you pay more for work, you must charge more for goods, and less radical Frenchmen are afraid that France will lose her foreign trade, if she has to put her prices up, especially as her money, theoretically on a gold basis, is high in price.

Over there they know that our dollar is worth fifty-nine cents, so the four-cent franc sells for about seven cents.

It is a complicated world, with so many nations using so many kinds of money, worse than France before Louis the Eleventh.

Spain proves that it is possible for a country to be too radical for its own good. Labor troubles and discussions have put one million Spanish workers out of their jobs, a good many

DOLAN BOND DEALS BARED BY J. F. DEVER

CITY LAID OUT CASH BEFORE DELIVERIES

The City of Boston, while Edmund L. Dolan was treasurer, frequently paid out money for bonds before the bonds were even purchased, it was testified today in superior court in the city's $250,000 suit against Dolan and six others.

John F. Dever, head of John F. Dever and Company, investment brokers at 60 Congress street, gave the testimony between reading of the records and check stubs showing bond purchases, through his office and for the city, totaling $1,400,000 from 1930 to 1933.

Out of 24 bond transactions read off regarding Dever's bond purchases for the city, all except one were made through the Legal Securities Corporation, Dever testified.

LOW COMMISSIONS

It is alleged in the suit that Dolan, while city treasurer, was also the secret head of the Legal Securities Corporation.

Dever's profit, he maintained,

CLOSE SCHOOL TRIAL, START SUMMATIONS

Final arguments began late today in the trials of Frederick F. Carroll and Robert T. Brown, charged with having sought money from a Boston school teacher to obtain her position.

It is likely the case may go to the jury tomorrow after Judge John M. Gibbs' charge.

Both Carroll and Brown were subjected to cross-examinations by Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle, but neither was shaken from his story that no money transaction was ever proposed in his dealings with Miss Mary E. Brennan, chief government witness.

BRIBES ALLEGED

Miss Brennan, a substitute teacher in the Boston schools, had testified the two defendants had asked her to assemble a group of girls who would be willing to contribute $150 each for promotions.

Brown's testimony, both during direct and cross-examination, was about the same as Carroll's—a detailed denial that such procedure as Miss Brennan testified to had ever taken place.

Both defendants told the court they had only been interested in Miss Brennan in a friendly way.

CHECKED ON JOB

They contended that the only thing they agreed to do was to check with Dr. Charles E. Mackey, former chairman of the School Committee, to find out why the girl had not been promoted.

Brown today reechoed the testimony of Carroll yesterday—that no school committeeman could have exerted influence to promote Miss Brennan, so long as Dr. Patrick T. Campbell remained superintendent of schools.

There's nothing like a little band music for getting into the spirit of things. Here, the Landon Serenaders, brass band, Landon poster and all, warm up the convention with music, laughter and song. "They can't stop Landon now" seems to be the theme song here.

Somerville Mayor Collapses at Desk

Suffering from intestinal grippe, Mayor Leslie E. Knox of Somerville collapsed at his desk today and was taken to Somerville Hospital.

His illness was aggravated by his refusal in the past few days to stay away from City Hall and take treatment, according to Dr. Crawford K. Sweeley, chairman of the Somerville board of health.

Despite the fact that he has been suffering from the malady, the mayor insisted last night on attending graduation exercises of Somerville high school in the Tufts College gymnasium.

PLATFORM FINISHED; DICTATED BY LANDON

By WILLIAM D. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Cleveland, June 11—After revising the monetary plank and making changes in other planks designed to meet the desires of Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican presidential nominee-to-be, the fifteen members of the resolutions sub-committee completed their work today on the platform to be submitted to the Republican national convention.

Tired and sleepy, the sub-committee, which has done the actual drafting of the planks, recessed for an hour at noon, when it will report to the full committee, if approved by its 50-odd members, the full committee will report to the convention later this afternoon.

Allyear fight was waged in the sub-committee over many issues, but the leaders predicted that no minority report would be offered.

AGAINST INFLATION

The money plank, which had been written in negotiation with Senator Borah of Idaho, was changed to make it unmistakably a "sound money plank."

Although the word "gold" was

BULLETINS

Cleveland, O., June 11 (INS)—Edward A. Hayes, campaign manager for Colonel Frank Knox of Illinois, announced the Illinois publisher will appear on the platform before the Republican National Convention this afternoon "to present some of his views."

Colonel Knox earlier today announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. His name is prominently mentioned as a running mate for Governor Landon.

Cleveland, June 11 (INS)—The Republican platform, as completed this afternoon, contains a direct pledge "against inflation"—using these words. While the sub-committee did not go as far as Governor Landon was said to want to go, the "hard money" group was satisfied.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 11—Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas was handed the Republican presidential nomination today without a contest.

All that remains is for the Republican national convention to go through the business of formally ratifying the selection. That will not be long in forthcoming.

Facing the inevitable, the opposition to the Kansas governor simply melted away. It appeared his nomination would be formally accomplished by acclamation tonight.

All his rivals for the nomination—principally Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Colonel Frank Knox of Chicago and Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan—withdrew from the race this morning and released those delegates who were pledged to their respective causes.

Senator Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa and Governor Harry W. Nice of Maryland also quickly withdrew and joined the Landon stampede.

Senator Borah, always the political realist, started the parade on the Landon banner by asking his campaign handlers not to present his name to the conventio.

Knox for Harmony

Senator Vandenberg was not long in following Borah's example. In a caucus of the Michigan delegation, he, too, asked his friends not to offer the convention his name.

And finally came Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, who issued a statement to the effect that the country is facing a crisis and that the national welfare requires complete harmony in the Republican Party to the end that a Republican administration should succeed the New Deal in Washington. He thereupon released those delegates who were committed to him, some hundred in number.

The utter collapse of any semblance of real opposition to Landon's nomination came within twelve hours after ex-President Herbert Hoover—never considered a serious candidate—had addressed the convention last night. Mr. Hoover's supporters sent up a trial balloon simultaneously with his appearance. It proved

HOOVER CHARGES NEW DEAL OUT TO KILL FREEDOM

BRANDS PLEDGE OF UTOPIA A MIRAGE TO THOSE IN DISTRESS, FLAYS SPOILS

Cleveland, June 11—The full text of former President Herbert Hoover's address at the Republican national convention follows:

In this room rests the greatest responsibility that has come to a body of Americans in three generations. In the lesser sense this is a convention of a great political party. But in the larger sense it is a convention of Americans to determine the fate of those ideals for which the nation was founded. That far transcends all partisanship.

There are elemental currents which make or break the fate of nations. There is a moral purpose in the universe. Those forces which affect the vitality and the soul of a people will control its destinies. The sum of years of public service in these currents is the overwhelming conviction of their transcendent importance over the more transitory even though difficult issues of national life.

I have given about four years to research into the New Deal, trying to determine what its ultimate objectives were, what sort of a system it is imposing on this country.

To some people it appears to be a strange interlude in American history in that it has no philosophy, that it is sheer opportunism, that it is a muddle of a spoils system, of emotional economics, of reckless adventure, of unctuous claims to a monopoly of human sympathy, of greed for power, of a desire for popular acclaim and an aspiration to make the front pages of the newspapers. That is the most charitable view.

To other people it appears to be a cold-blooded attempt by starry-eyed boys to infect the American people by a mixture of European ideas, flavored with our native predilection to get something for nothing.

Both Roads Lead To End of Freedom

You can choose either one you like best. But the first is the road of chaos which leads to the second. Both of these roads lead over the same grim precipice that is the crippling and possibly the destruction of the freedom of men.

Which of these interpretations is accurate is even disputed by alumni of the New Deal who have graduated for conscience's sake or have graduated by request.

In central Europe the march of Socialist and Fascist dictatorships and their destruction of liberty did not set out with guns and armies. They began their ascent to the seats of power through the elections provided by liberal institutions.

Their weapons were promise and hate. They offered the mirage of Utopia to those in distress. They flung the poison of class hatred. They may not have quenched the bodies of men, but they maimed their souls.

The campaign was a pretty good imitation of this first stage of European tactics. You may recall the promises of the abundant life, the propaganda of hate.

Once seated in office the first demand of these European despotisms was for power and "action." Legislatures were told they "must" delegate their authorities. Their free debate was suppressed. The powers demanded are always the same pattern. They all adopt planned economy. They regimented industry and agriculture.

Vast Organization Of Spoils Henchmen

They put the government into business. They engaged in gigantic government expenditures. They created vast organizations of spoils henchmen and subsidized dependents. They corrupted currency and credit. They drugged the thinking of the people with propaganda at the people's expense.

If there are any items in this stage in the march of European collectivism that the New Deal has not imitated it must have been an oversight.

But at this point this parallel with Europe halts—at least for the present. The American people should thank Almighty God for the Constitution and the Supreme Court. They should be grateful to a courageous press.

You might contemplate what would have happened if Mr. Roosevelt could have appointed enough Supreme Court justices in the first year of his administration. Suppose these New Deal acts had remained upon the statute books. We would have been a regimented people. Have you any assurance that he will not have the appointments if he is re-elected?

Will They Resume If Re-elected

The succeeding stages of violence and outrage by which European despotisms have crushed all liberalism and all freedom have filled our headlines for years.

But what comes next in the United States? Have the New Dealers dropped their ideas of centralization of government? Have they abandoned the notion of regimenting the people into a planned economy? Has that greed for power become cooled by the resistance of a people with a heritage of liberty? Will they resume if they are re-elected?

When we examine the speeches of Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes and others we see little indication of repentance.

Let me say this: America is no monarchy where the chief of state is not responsible for his ministers.

It has been traditional in our government since the beginning that the important officials appointed by the President speak in tune with his mind. That is imperative if there is to be intellectual honesty in government.

President Roosevelt finds no difficulty in disciplining his officials. Witness the prompt dismissal of those who did not publicly agree with him.

The President will not discharge these men upon whom the New Deal is dependent. No matter what the new platform of the New Deal party may say, the philosophy of collectivism and that greed for power are in the blood of some part of these men.

Do you believe that if re-elected they intend to stand still among the wreckage of their dreams? In the words of Mr. Hopkins, perhaps we are too profanely dumb to understand.

Attempt to Supplant European System

So much for the evidence that the New Deal is a definite attempt to replace the American system of freedom with some sort of European dictatorship. But let us assume that the explanation is simply hit-and-run opportunism, spoils system, and muddle.

We can well take a moment to explore the prospects of American ideals of liberty and self-government under that philosophy. We may take only seven short examples.

The supreme court has reversed some ten or 12 of the New Deal major enactments. Many of these acts were a violation of the rights of men and of self-government. Despite the sworn duty of the executive and Congress to defend these rights they have sought to take them into their own hands. That is an attack on the foundations of freedom.

More than this, the independence of the Congress, the supreme court, and the executive are pillars at the door of liberty. For three years the word "must" has invaded the independence of Congress.

And the Congress has abandoned its responsibility to check even the expenditures of money. They have turned open appropriations into personal slush funds. These are destructions of the very safeguards of free people.

Slavery of Work For New Deal Follies

We have seen these gigantic expenditures and the creation of waste pile up a national debt which two generations cannot repay.

One time I told a Democratic Congress that "you cannot spend yourselves into prosperity." You and Mr. Roosevelt did not take then. It hasn't taken yet.

Billions have been spent to prime the economic pump. It did employ a horde of paid officials upon the pump handle. We have seen the frantic attempts to find new taxes on the rich.

Yet three quarters of the bill will be sent to the average man and the poor. He and his wife and his grandchildren will be given a quarter of all their working days to pay taxes.

Freedom to work for himself is changed into a slavery of work for the follies of government.

We have seen an explosive inflation of bank credits by this government spending. We have seen varied steps toward currency inflation that have already enriched the speculator and deprived the poor.

If this is to continue the end result is the tears and anguish of universal bankruptcy and distress. No democracy in history has survived its final stages.

Building Up Horde Of Public Officials

We have seen the building up of a horde of political officials. We have seen the pressures upon the helpless and destitute to trade political support for relief. Both are a pollution of the very fountains of liberty.

We have seen the most elemental violation of economic law and experience. The New Deal forgets it is solely by production of more goods and more varieties of goods and services that we advance the living standards of our people.

If we constantly decrease costs and prices and keep up earnings in prosperity, then plenty will be more and more widely distributed.

These laws may be re-stitched in new patterns but their area the very shoes of human progress.

We had so triumphed in this long climb of Marking toward plenty that we had reached Mount Pisgah where we looked over the promised land of prosperity. Then men began to quarrel over the division of the goods.

The depression produced by war destruction temporarily checked our march toward the promised land.

Mother Hubbard Economic Muddle

Then came the little prophets of the New Deal. They announce the striking solution that the way out to prosperity was to increase prices so the people can buy less. They have kept on providing some new restriction or burden or fright down to a week ago.

At least it has enabled the New Deal to take a few hundred thousand earnest party workers to the promised land. It takes the rest of us for a ride into the wilderness of unemployment.

Can Democracy stand the strain of Mother Hubbard economics for long?

Any examination of the economic muddle of the last three years shows the constant thread of price fixing, restriction of production and destruction of small business. That is the soul of monopoly. That has maintained from the NRA to the last tax bill. These are old tricks in new disguises which put shackles upon the freedom of men.

In spite of jumping from one muddle to another we have seen repeated violation of morals and honest principles.

Do I need recall the repudiation of obligations, the crippling of the Supreme Court, the violation of trust to guard the Constitution and the coercion of the voter?

When the standards of honor and morals fall in government they fall in the people.

Gospel of Class Hatred Preached

There are some moral laws written in a great book. Over all there is the gospel of brotherhood. For the first time in the history of America we have heard the gospel of class hatred preached from the White House.

That is human poison far more deadly than fear. Every reader of the history of Democracy knows that is the final rock upon which all democracies have been wrecked.

There is the suggestion in the gospels that it is the meek who will inherit the earth. The New Deal will have little inheritance. There are recommendations as to righteousness for righteousness' sake only. I will not elaborate that.

If all this is the theory and practice of muddle where has it brought us, even now? We have spent $15,000,000,000 more than the last Republican administration.

We have a debt ten billions greater than even the great war debt.

After three years we still have the same number of unemployed that we had at the election of November 1932.

These actions are bringing injury to the well being of people it purports to serve. It has produced gross reactionarism in the guise of liberalism.

And above all the New Deal has brought that which George Washington called "alterations which may impair the energy of the system and thus overthrow that which cannot be directly overthrown."

Republicans after a hundred and fifty years, we have arrived at that hour.

Here where the talents of human freedom were first handed down, their sacred word has been flouted. Today the stern task is before the Republican party to restore the Ark of that Covenant to the temple in Washington.

American People Have Right to Know

The New Deal may be a revolutionary design to replace the American system with despotism. It may be the dream of a false liberalism. It may be the valor of muddle.

Their relationship to each other, however, is exactly the sistership of the witches who brewed the cauldron of powerful trouble for Macbeth. Their product is the poisoning of Americanism.

The President has constantly reiterated that he will not retreat. For months to be sure, that re has been a strange quiet. Just as the last campaign was fought on promises that have been broken, so apparently this campaign is to be slipped through by evasion.

But the American people have the right to know now, while they still have power to act.

What is going to be done after election with these issues which the Constitution forbids and the people by their votes have never authorized?

What do the New Dealers propose to do with these instable currencies, unbalanced budgets, debts, and taxes? Fifty words would make it clear. Surely the propaganda agencies which emit half a million words a day could find room for these fifty.

I noticed they recently spent three hundred words on how to choose a hat. It is slightly more important to know the fate of a nation.

You have the duty to determine the principles upon which the Republican Party will stand. You make the laws of the party. Whether it is within the party or a government, our system is a government of laws and not of men. This party holds its promises.

The immediate task is to set the country on the road of genuine recovery from the paths of instability. We have enough inventions and enough accumulated needs to start the physical rebuilding of America.

The day the Republican Party can assure right principles we can turn this nation from the demoralization of relief to the contentment of constructive jobs.

Herein—and herein alone—is a guarantee of jobs for the 11,000,000 idle based upon realities and not on political claptrap.

In the meantime the party which Republican party to restore the Ark of that Covenant employed three years before the New Deal was born will not turn from those in need.

That support to distress comes from the conscience and sympathy of a people, not from the New Deal.

Four years ago I stated that the Republican party must undertake progressive reforms from evils exposed by the boom and depression. But I stated our first job was to restore men to work.

The New Deal has attempted many reforms. They have delayed recovery. Parts of them are good. Some have failed. Some are tainted with collectivist ideas. That task must be undertaken anew by the Republican party.

New Dangers Lurk In Swing to Reaction

A new danger is created to the republic in that the swing from the foolishness of radicalism will carry us to the selfishness of reaction.

The Republican party must achieve true social betterment. But we must produce measures that will not work confusion and disappointment. We must propose a real approach to social ills, not the prescription for them, of quacks, of poison in place of remedy.

We must achieve freedom in the economic field. We have grave problems in relation of government to agriculture and business. Monopoly is only one of them. The Republican party is against the greed for power of the wanton boys who waste the people's savings.

But it must be equally adamant against the greed for power and exploitation in the seekers of special privilege.

At one time I said: "We can no more have economic power without checks and balances than we can have political power without checks and balance."

Either one leads to tyranny.

G. O. P. Must Accept Each New Challenge

The Republican party must be a party that accepts the challenge of each new day. The last word in human accomplishment has not been spoken. The last step in human progress has not been made.

We welcome change when it will produce a fairer, more just, and satisfying civilization.

But change which destroys the safeguards of free men and women are only apples of Sodom.

Great calamities have come to the whole world. These forces have reached into every cailing and every cottage. They have brought tragedy and suffering to millions of firesides.

I have great sympathy for those who honestly reach for short cuts to the immensity of our problem.

While design of the structure of betterment for the common man must be inspired by the human heart, it can only be achieved by the intellect.

It can only be builded by using the mold of justice, by laying brick upon brick from the materials of scientific research; by the painstaking sifting of truth from the collection of fact and experience.

Any other mold is distorted; any other bricks are without straw; any other foundations are sand. That great structure of human welfare can be built only by free men and women.

Must We Condemn Unborn Generations?

The gravest task which confronts the party is to regenerate these freedoms.

There are principles which neither tricks of organization, nor the figure of depression, nor the march of time, nor New Dealers, nor Socialists, nor Fascists can change.

There are some principles which came into the universe along with the shooting stars of which worlds are made, and they have always been and ever will be true.

Such are the laws of mathematics, the law of gravitation, the existence of God, and the ceaseless struggle of humankind upward.

Throughout the centuries of history, man's vigil and his quest has been to be free. For this the best and bravest on earth have fought and died. To embody human liberty in workable government, America was born.

Shall we keep that faith?

Must we condemn the unborn generations to fight again and to die for the right to be free?

There are some principles that cannot be compromised. Either we shall have a society based upon ordered liberty and the initiative of the individual, or we shall have a planned society that means dictation no matter what you call it or who does it.

There is no half-way ground. They cannot be mixed.

Government must either release the powers of the individual for honest achievement or the very forces it creates will drive it inexorably to lay its paralyzing hand more and more heavily upon individual effort.

Led to Believe Constitution a Cage

Less than 20 years ago we accepted those ideals as the air we breathed. We fought a great war for their protection. We took upon ourselves obligations of billions. We buried our sons in foreign soil.

But in this score of years we have seen the advance of collectivism and its inevitable tyranny in more than half the civilized world. In this thundering era of world crisis distracted America stands confused and uncertain.

The White party temporized, compromised upon the issue of slavery for the black man. That party disappeared. It deserved to disappear.

Shall the Republican party deserve or receive any better fate if it compromises upon the issue of freedom for all men, white as well as black?

You of this convention must make the answer.

Let us not blink the difficulties. Throughout the land there are multitudes of people who have listened to the songs of sirens.

Thousands of men, if put to the choice, would willingly exchange liberty for fancied security even under dictatorship.

Under their distress they doubt the value of their own rights and liberties. They do not see the Constitution as a fortress for their deliverance.

They have been led to believe that it is an iron cage against which the wings of idealism beat in vain.

They do not realize that their only relief and their hope of economic security can come only from the enterprise and initiative of free men.

Let this convention declare without shrinking, the source of economic prosperity is freedom. Man must be free to use his own power in his own way. Free to think, to speak, to worship. Free to dare in his own adventure. It is the essence of true liberalism that the three freedoms are limited by the rights of others.

Freedom both requires and makes increased responsibilities. There is no freedom from exploitation of the poor or from the dead hand of bureaucracy.

There's something vastly bigger than poverty, than economics, than materialism at issue in this campaign.

The free spirit of men is the source of self-respect, of sturdiness, of moral and spiritual progress. With the inspirations of freedom comes fidelity to public trust, honor and morals in government.

The social order does not rest upon security—economic freedom alone. It rests even more upon the ideals and character of a people.

Governments must express those ideals in frugality, in justice, in courage, in decency and in regard for the less fortunate, and above all, in honor.

Nations die when these weaken, no matter what their material prosperity.

Will-o'-the-Wisps To Beguile People

Fundamental American liberties are at stake. Is the Republican Party ready for the issue?

Are you willing to cast your all upon the issue, or would you falter and look back?

Will you, for expediency's sake, also offer will-o'-the-whisps which beguile the people?

Or have you determined to enter in a holy crusade for liberty which shall determine the future and the perpetuity of a nation of free men?

That star shell fired today over the no man's land of world despair would illuminate the world with hope.

In another great crisis in American history, that great Republican, Abraham Lincoln, said:

"Fellow citizens, we cannot escape history. We . . . will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance or insignificance can spare one or another of us. The fiery trial through which we pass will light us down in honor or dishonor to the latest generation . . . We—even we here—hold the power and bear the responsibility. we shall nobly save or meanly lose the last, best hope of earth . . . the way is plain . . . A way which if followed, the world will forever applaud."

Republicans and fellow Americans! This is your call. Stop the retreat.

In the chaos of doubt, confusion and fear yours is the task to command.

Stop the retreat, and turning the eyes of your fellow Americans to the sunlight of freedom, lead the attack to retake, recapture and reman the citadels of liberty.

Thus can America be preserved. Thus can the peace, plenty and security be re-established and expanded. Thus can the opportunity, the inheritance and the spiritual future of your children be guaranteed. And thus you will win the gratitude of posterity and the blessing of Almighty God.

CLASS HATRED MANIPULATED IN EUROPEAN FASHION

SHOT IN FIGHT AT PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, June 11—Two men met in Newell street today, quarrelled, and before a score of horrified spectators could intervene, Amedio Coragoschia, 55, fell to the sidewalk, half his face torn off by a shotgun blast.

Police Chief John L. Sullivan ordered out a heavily armed squad of eight patrolmen, led by Sergeant Richard Rock, to chase the fleeing assailant.

The chief said the man behind the shotgun was Joseph Carocro, 50, whom Coragoschia had several times accused of being too friendly with his wife.

Polcaro's auto truck was found abandoned in the wooded section of Pontoosuc, about three miles out of the city, a short time later, according to Chief Sullivan.

Coragoschia was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. His name was placed on the danger list.

Al Smith Takes Third Zoo Berth

New York, June 11 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith now has three zoos under his wing, so to speak.

To his duties as night superintendent of the Central Park Zoo and rental agent of the Prospect Park Zoo in Brooklyn he has added that of curator of the new Staten Island Zoo in West New Brighton.

"You can now holding at what will probably some day be the foremost authority on animal life in America," Smith told a gathering at the new zoo.

Today's Boon-Doggle

Under the terms of a project approved by President Roosevelt, the Works Progress Administration is authorized to spend $12,300 of Federal funds to mark traffic lanes throughout the city of Denver. The city will contribute an additional $800.

There are more than 80,000 automobiles registered in the city of Denver, the owners of which must pay personal property taxes, license fees and gasoline taxes.

If local officials had been willing to spend 15 cents from the revenues they obtained on each car, they could have performed this work themselves.

Instead, they generously—one might say magnanimously— contributed three-quarters of a cent per car, and turned to the Federal treasury for the rest.

Here, we envy any country that talks about "one million" idle; since we are alleged to have more idle than all other civilized countries put together, but at least we have no open killing by professed terrorists—only our racketeers and occasional secret society murders.

Landon, Up With Sun, Waits Victory Call

EXCITED? NOT A BIT! COOL ON JOB

Denies Planks Read to Him

By BOB HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Topeka, Kan., June 11 (INS)—The sun and Governor Alf M. Landon rose at approximately the same hour in Topeka this morning on the day that will likely end with his nomination for President of the United States.

A notably early riser, the governor was up at a few minutes after 6 a. m., dressed and on his front porch reading the newspapers by the time the humblest laborer was on his way to work.

Governor Landon said newspapermen had routed him out of bed at 2 a. m., to get his denial that a Kansas delegate was reading him the draft of the Republican platform over the telephone from Cleveland.

"I haven't talked to that man in two days," Governor Landon said.

He said that he did not know what the platform draft contained, adding that a Cleveland dispatch declaring stenographers here were taking it over the phone was wrong.

"THERE SHE STANDS"

The Governor, obviously pleased at the addition of the majority of delegates from New York and Pennsylvania to his growing column, expressed particular pride in Pennsylvania, the state of his birth.

"Pennsylvania is a great old state," he said. "As Daniel Webster said of Massachusetts, 'there she stands.'"

If the balloting for the presidential nomination starts tonight, the Governor and Mrs. Landon will hear it over the radio at the Executive Mansion. Their only guest will be Mrs. Samuel E. Cobb, mother of Mrs. Landon.

As the crescendo of his acclaim reached band-wagon proportions, a plain Kansas dirt farmer, accompanied by his two sons, came from Ottawa to Topeka this afternoon "to see how Alf was taking it."

Meanwhile Topeka prepared to stage a wild celebration when Gov. Landon is nominated. Herbert G. Barrett, opeka's 300-pound mayor whom Landon affectionately calls "Tiny," issued a proclamation urging Topekans "to join in an ovation to the Governor."

Plans call for a march to the executive mansion when the expected flash from Cleveland is received. Factories will tie down their whistles and the Chamber of Commerce has purchased fireworks, bombs and torches to be distributed to celebrators.

Broadcastin gchains have lines laid to the state house and the executive mansion to describe the scene to the nation.

Independence, Kans., home town of the Governor, plans an equally wild celebration even though Landon turned down its invitation to be there to hear the nomination.

Wearing a broad-brimmed black hat, a coat, no tie, corduroy trousers and thick-soled shoes, Silas Shaw, 65, R. R. 3, Ottawa, Kansas shook hands with the governor, eyed him quizzically, answered Landon's questions concerning crops, said goodbye and joined the crowds which milled the State House corridors throughout the day.

To a waiting reporter, Shaw said:

"Well, I got to wonderin' about the size of Alf's haiband, that's all. I reckon now I ought to knowed better. He's still the same Alf."

Thus a toil-bent farmer from the plains of Kansas appraised the man who doubtless will be nominated for President of the United States within the next 24 hours.

If the case of a nation upon him has altered Alf M. Landon one bit, he gives no sign of it. As he and Mrs. Landon listened over the radio to the address of former President Hoover, no group of pseudo-admirers and satellites dressed the background. The Landons simply joined millions of other American families and listened—alone.

The governor rose at 6 a. m., dressed, and read newspapers on the front porch of the executive mansion on Buchanan street until breakfast time. He walked to his office, arriving there at 8:30 a. m.

Before noon 23 telegrams, no less than a dozen long distance telephone calls and an enormous pile of correspondence had accumulated. In the outer office sat an assistant secretary in President Roosevelt's cabinet, a famous transatlantic flier and approximately another score of persons from all walks of life wanting "to shake the hand of the next President."

The procession through the open door of the governor's office began.

While a landslide is impending at Cleveland for Landon, the governor of Kansas keeps busy many hours a day at his desk in the governor's office in Topeka. Alfred M. Landon was snapped as he perused a document.

Private telephone messages from the G. O. P. battleground in the Ohio city bring good news to Landon. He affixed his signature to a state paper between calls from his daughter and others in Cleveland.

Future Veterans Banned by Rose

Adjt.-Gen. William I. Rose today announced that the Veterans of Future Wars will not be permitted to participate in the parade of the YD veterans during the 17th annual convention in Worcester June 26, 27 and 28.

"I refuse to consider the request seriously," said Gen. Rose in disposing of the matter. .....

Canadian Premier Resigns Office

Quebec, Que., June 11 (AP)—Premier Taschereau tendered his resignation to Lieutenant-Governor Patenaude today and suggested that Agriculture Minister Godbout be invited to form a government.

Earlier in the day the premier announced after a cabinet meeting he dissolved and a genarl election that the Quebec legislature would would be held Aug. 15.

Chicken in Every Pot Laid an Egg!

Hatched Blue Eagle That Became Dead Duck

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.)

Cleveland, June 11 (US)—The Republicans unveiled Hoover and he got a greater reception than the Boy Scouts give the apple season.

* * *

The delegates cheered themselves hoarse. Then they cheered themselves another hoarse and hada hoarse race. They galloped up and down the aisles. They slapped each other silly and tore up the seats. They yelled like a mugg counting his change at a circus ticket window. They whooped and they bellowed. All at the sight of the man who insulated us with paper prosperity.

The first spontaneous outburst occurred in the Republican party since 1928 when the yeast blew the caps off the home brew. The magic name of Hoover was the high spot of the Cleveland convention. It must be fun to be fooled.

* * *

Maybe Hoover was right and maybe he was wrong. The cheering lasted 30 minutes as the cuckoos fly in the Swiss clock. It was terrific and it was on the level.

For 30 long minutes Hoover bowed and smiled. For 30 long minutes he said nothing and did nothing. Thereby adding an extra half-hour to his administration.

* * *

There is no use talking, they seemed to like Hoover tonight.

* * *

He was as welcome as a straw in soda water. He was dressed neatly, looked healthy, and was as affable as a fat lady on an escalator.

* * *

We never saw Hoover in better shape or in better humor. The roar of the crowd made him expand like an omelet souffle and he filled the platform like two cars in a garage. He looked like he had just ordered chicken in every pot. The cheering rolled up the valleys and reverberated from the hills. It was all Hoover and an indication that alphabetical recovery has reached the H's.

* * *

The story of the second day of the convention is the story of committees. The committee on rules broke most of them.

* * *

The committee on permanent organization was only temporary. The committee on foreign debts had to learn 16 new languages.

LANDON Inspiration WAITED

G. O. P. DRIVE NEEDS SPARK

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
Noted Newspaper Woman and Magazine Writer
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.)

Auditorium, Cleveland, June 11—Sometimes you have to play a hunch.

I'm playing one right now, but I'm calling it. It's just a hunch and nothing more.

Those delegates out there in this packed convention hall aren't getting what they want. They're waiting for it and they want it awfully bad and right now they're all eager for something vital and real and completely human, something that isn't already cut and dried.

Adela R. St. John

It exists somewhere. But, the words and the ideas and the man who will change these 15,000 businesslike, quiet men and women into a lot of crusaders who believe they can win in November and save America from the "New Deal" haven't showed up yet.

My hunch is that they will come and that they somehow will be unexpected.

Sitting hour after hour in the hot convention hall, with blazing lights searing my eyeballs and thundering oratory ringing in my ears, I feel a wave come across from those delegates who will in time select the man to oppose Roosevelt, who will be the shock troops to go out into the coming campaign and see if they can elect their nominee President of the United States.

The experts around here, the men who have covered conventions and know everything about them, like Damon Runyon and George Holmes and John Lambert, tell me that this is a new order of delegates—that these people are new to conventions and that the old-timers who had served years and years are mysteriously missing.

But to date this convention is being run along old and tried and true lines. It's following the routine of conventions that has existed for a long, long time.

But my hunch is that the wave of waiting which comes over to me from those delegates is a desire for something much simpler, much more human than we have had so far.

What this great party which has the privilege of electing a man to run against Roosevelt needs to give us is a man of simple inspiration who will lead the way to victory.

There doesn't seem to be much question that they feel as a whole that Landon of Kansas is that man.

The Senator

Dilates on Drama Of Baffled Fly

Timmy is shooing a persistent fly away from the ale tap when who comes in but The Senator.

"Timmy," says The Senator, "the drama of the frustrated fly reminds me of a certain South Boston politician who was greatly disappointed at the Springfield convention.

"Unable to land where he wanted to, he is buzzing around like the fly, not making any real trouble, you understand, but generally annoying and more or less of a nuisance. If you have any flyless ale, Timmy, I will purchase a glass."

"Senator," says Timmy, "you mean sour grapes."

"Gripes or grapes," says Timmy, "it is all out of the same vat."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "why I did not go to Cleveland is because I am keeping in touch with what is going on here. There is a lot of pressure on Arthur Lyman, the correction commissioner, to be a primary candidate for lieutenant-governor. With Francis Kelly shouting that his pocket was picked by Phil Philbin, the mail order candidate put forth by Senator Walsh's postmasters, many think the set-up is ideal for Arthur to win in a three-cornered fight, going before the people on his record as a career man."

"What about Joe Hurley, Senator?" says Timmy.

"Joe Hurley, Timmy," says The Senator, "has burned his bridges behind him, or perhaps it would be more apropos to say he has burned his breeches behind him, inasmuch as he is in the hot seat in the present situation. He said before the convention that he would not run again for lieutenant-governor if he was not endorsed for governor, and now he is out. Paul Dever played both ends against the middle and couldn't lose out. Joe, as it turned out, couldn't win.

The Senator says The Senator, baffling the frustrated fly by quickly drinking his ale, "I hear that Governor Jim will not name Senate President Jimmy Moran to the Industrial Accident Board but will give this nice job to Representative Ralph E. Otis, the liberal Republican from Springfield who votes for Governor Jim's bills. Ralph always has a tough fight for re-election and the $6000 job is very attractive. The appointment will strengthen Governor Jim in western Massachusetts and Moran will get another job."

"Senator," says Timmy, "what I mean is what do you hear from Cleveland? What is really going on at the convention?"

Party Harmony

"Timmy," says the Senator, taking a deep breath, "the political convention is a history-making conclave which gets under way with a victory banquet in a spirit of party harmony and intelligent appeal to the independent voters, after which the keynote is sounded in a ringing speech, strategic reasons ring about the adoption or rejection of certain platform planks, a lot of booms become a band wagon and the standard bearer is borne to the nomination on a tidal wave of popular favor, the nation marking the momentous decision with acclaim, while the undidate himself waits calmly and disappointed candidates, refusing to bolt, rally loyally to full support of the party, in complete accord with its declared ticket and principles."

"Senator," says Timmy, "that is the longest you ever go without breathing since the night you drink the big stein of ale on the bet for a new skimmer."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "what really goes on is this: a lot of otherwise intelligent people act like Japanese schoolboys at a circus, everybody complains about his hotel room but nobody goes to sleep anyway, no session ever starts earlier than two hours late, the world's worst bands lead the parades, the wildest rumors are accepted as truth, the piece de resistance of the convention lunch is a rancid ham sandwich washed down by warm soda pop, and while the delegates are exhausting themselves making noises for whoever will listen the actual maneuvering is being done by a few persons who finally spring their coup on an exhausted assemblage that cheers it to the echo, being too tired to do anything but give thanks that the end is at hand."

'Sour Gripes'

"Senator," says Timmy, "that sounds like sour gripes because you do not go to Cleveland."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "you mean sour grapes."

"Gripes or grapes," says Timmy, "it is all out of the same vat."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "why I did not go to Cleveland is because I am keeping in touch with what is going on here. There is a lot of pressure on Arthur Lyman, the correction commissioner, to be a primary candidate for lieutenant-governor. With Francis Kelly shouting that his pocket was picked by Phil Philbin, the mail order candidate put forth by Senator Walsh's postmasters, many think the set-up is ideal for Arthur to win in a three-cornered fight, going before the people on his record as a career man."

"What about Joe Hurley, Senator?" says Timmy.

"Joe Hurley, Timmy," says The Senator, "has burned his bridges behind him, or perhaps it would be more apropos to say he has burned his breeches behind him, inasmuch as he is in the hot seat in the present situation. He said before the convention that he would not run again for lieutenant-governor if he was not endorsed for governor, and now he is out. Paul Dever played both ends against the middle and couldn't lose out. Joe, as it turned out, couldn't win.

Mayor Freddie Out

"I hear that Mayor Freddie is definitely out of the Democratic senatorial primary fight and that Marcus Coolidge will provide the opposition for Governor Jim. Mayor Freddie has hiked the Boston tax rate up another buck in a total of $38, the largest in history, after having assailed Governor Jim's tax rates for years, and this does not give him a very good talking point for a contest with Governor Jim. Mute Marcus will remove the muzzle at an early date and go to work on Governor Jim with the assistance of his son-in-law.

"And now, Timmy, while Joe Ely is uncrating his brand new Republican soap box, I must away. I am heading for Winchester."

"Winchester, Senator?" says Timmy. "I do not know you have friends in Winchester."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "there is a large sewer project known as the Aberjona river in Winchester, which is a PWA affair, and wherever there is a PWA sewer project I have friends. Besides I have a letter from my father to the man in charge."

"Your father, Senator?" says Timmy. "I thought your father was dead and buried."

"Just politically, Timmy," says The Senator. "Just politically. This is a farewell note he wrote before he committed suicide."

Newton Boy, 4, Bitten by Dog

Four-year-old Donald McLean of Jefferson street, Newton, wandered into the yard of a neighbor today, got too close to a tied-up German police dog, and was severely bitten.

At Newton Hospital a number of stitches were required to close a wound on the left side of the boy's face.

The dog was in the yard of Mrs. Nora A. Smith, who stumbled and was hurt as she raced through the yard to aid the boy.

Shots, Crash Halt Fleeing Driver

An alleged attempt to escape from one policeman led a Lynnfield motorist into collision with the car of another in Lynnfield today during a chase in which a state trooper fired three shots.

Albert T. Lyons, 29, of Locust street, was arrested on charges of operating under the influence of liquor and leaving the scene of an accident.

State Trooper Frank Geist reported that Lyons, with a girl whose identity was not made known, was parked in a lane off Grove street and speeded away when the trooper tried to question him. Geist took up the chase in his own machine, firing his pistol in an effort to halt the fugitive, and a mile along Grove street Lyons' car collided with a Lynnfield police cruiser driven by Patrolman Walter Riggs.

Nobody was injured and Geist arrested Lyons a short distance beyond the scene of the crash. Lyons pleaded not guilty to the charges, and the case was continued until June 24.

Edwin C. Hill Says:

Borah and Hoover Facing Crisis

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

Cleveland, June 11—The Republican party comes this day to the parting of the ways, to the crossroads of destiny. Old grudges, disappointed hopes, the conservatism and crustiness of age—all pettiness must give way to loyal party spirit. Otherwise they might as well pack up and go home.

The candidate is settled. It's Landon, of course, on the first ballot.

For vice-president some one acceptable to Governor Landon will be selected tomorrow or next day.

It may be the New Englander, Governor Bridges of New Hampshire. It may be George Peck who was a dress Dealer for a few minutes. Then got so fed up he began ripping large sections of hide off the orange creature.

Edwin C. Hill

It may be Senator Steiwer.

It may be Edge of New Jersey.

It may even be that incomprehensible fellow, Borah.

Platform Problems

Where the trouble lies is in the platform.

When Borah came to Cleveland, melancholy and perhaps bitter over the collapse of his own presidential aspirations, the platform problem was not considered serious.

There were difficulties, of course, how to reconcile the conservative East and the liberal West—what to do about farm, currency, relief issues and so on.

But these were being ironed out until Borah charged in, breathing fire and kicking up the dust.

Without apparent justification, he seized upon an unauthenticated draft of the platform, assumed it was the work of the Landon people, gathered the newspaper men around him and proceeded to call it out of its name.

"Craven," "cowardly," "timid" were only a few of the excoriations he employed.

When the Landon managers heard Borah was on the warpath they sought him to see what they could do to please him. They didn't need him to nominate their man and they don't now. But they were thinking of the good of the party—that it is well for brethren to dwell together in unity.

It's been a puzzle to find out what the Idaho Webster really does want. One week he says he's interested in the candidate. The next week he blithely states candidates don't interest him—only the platform.

What Ails Borah?

What's the matteer with the man, any way? A liberal himself, he finds in the forthcoming candidate the most liberal man the Republican party will have named since Theodore Roosevelt—even more liberal than Roosevelt, because 30 years have passed, and Landon is of a new generation and a greatly liberalized period.

Borah knows just about what is contemplated for the platform, that it is by all odds the most advanced set of principles the party has ever drawn up.

Nevertheless he raises the long howl and threatens to take his doll rags and go home if they won't write it just the way he wants it.

Is he sore because of the failure of his own candidacy? Has bitterness corroded his spirit?

He alone can answer those questions, but the fact remains it is largely up to him, as a great and respected Republican leader, with a strong following in the West, whether the party takes another beating or wins back to power.

As for Herbert Hoover, ex-President, who made a great speech last night, I say, his responsibility is fully as great as that which falls upon Borah.

Just as Borah's attitude will heavily influence western opinion, so will Hoover's powerfully affect eastern opinion.

I make bold to say that upon these two elder statesmen—the only living ex-President and the distinguished Senator—rest tremendous responsibility as the convention nears its major decisions.

They can make for harmony. They can make for discord. They can ease the way to victory or slow the pace to defeat.

YOUTH REJUVENATES PARTY, SAYS STEIWER

With the red-blooded vigor of youth, the rising generation has rejuvenated the G. O. P. "elephants," Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon declares in a special signed article for Universal Service.

By SENATOR FREDERICK STEIWER OF OREGON

Keynote speaker of the Republican National Convention and prominently mentioned as a candidate for the vice-presidency.

(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service)

Cleveland Auditorium, June 11 (US)—The reawakened "elephant" will be a tough customer to stop in the November elections.

That fact is further riveted by the enthusiasm and will to win spirit shown at this convention by the delegates from all parts of the nation.

Overshadowing all other developments in the party, in my opinion, is the advance of Young Republicans, that is, young in age and in the highest councils of the party.

The old guard in many states has been ousted by the more active leadership of younger men.

At this convention there are scores of delegates, who never before attended a Republican national convention. It is evidence that the rising generation is alive to the burdens that have been imposed by the "New Dealers" at Washington.

It is evidence that the rising generation realizes that the philosophy of the "New Deal" offers them nothing in the way of opportunity.

Swinging to the banner of a party that has the non-partisan purpose of ousting the "New Dealers," these younger men and women bode well for the future of America—for the security of our nation on a basis of progress without destruction of our institutions.

DEEP SERIOUSNESS

This convention is different also from past conclaves in its deep seriousness. There is a positive and unmistakable manifestation of purpose to carry the issues of this campaign to the country.

The delegates and visitors exhibit little if any of the ballyhoo which is customary to most large conventions. The delegates are interested in the party's platform, issues and principles.

Observers are looking forward to something other than the usual from this purposeful group.

Republican reverses in 1932 and 1934 left the party with little organization and less of definite purpose. That was a signal to rejuvenate, revitalize the party in line with its basic principles which are ever enduring.

It is now apparent that those defeats will be richly compensated for by arousing enthusiasm and a new and higher sense of responsibility.

With the passing of the years the coming of new leadership in the party is inevitable. The old guard cannot hold on forever. There must be new blood, the spirit of youth. And the Republican party will go to the nation with that appeal.

NEW LEADERSHIP

The vigor of the younger element plus the serious purpose of the old is shaping party sentiment to a more marked degree than may be realized by the public.

But when these delegates return to their respective homes, I believe the effect will be electric in arousing the country to the dangers facing us.

This convention of Republicans is progressive in its thinking. Its platform will be liberal, but its liberalism will be seen as sane.

Dever Scores on Collection Agency

Attorney-General Dever scored a point today in his drive against collection agencies illegally practising law when William M. Blatt, master, filed in Supreme Court his report in the action brought by Dever against the Creditors National Clearing House, Inc.

Blatt found the company had engaged in the illegal practice of law for its own profit, that the corporation had 944 subscribers and a file approximating 20,000 claims totaling about $1,000,000.

The master further found that the company had collected about 70 or 75 per cent of claims without having them pass through the hands of an attorney.

Objections to the finding of the master were filed with the report and the Supreme Court is expected to review the finding.

Quincy Eviction For HOLC Ordered

The Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation today obtained an eviction order, in Quincy district court, for the ousting of a Quincy couple from their home in Henry street.

Although Seb Somers pleaded for more time, saying his wife had been ill and that he had been out of work but hoped for better luck, Judge Stewart MacLeod issued an order for their eviction tomorrow.

WORCESTER'S MAYOR DIES AT PARLEY

Cleveland, June 11 — Death stalked the Republican national convention today and struck down Mayor Walter J. Cookson, 59, of Worcester, Mass.

A fatal heart attack seized the Massachusetts leader early today after the excitement and heat of the convention hall had forced him to leave its session early last night.

Mrs. Cookson was with him when he died, shortly after 4 o'clock in his hotel room.

News of his death was phoned to his home city by George F. Booth, publisher of the Worcester Telegram-Gazette and Massachusetts member of the convention resolutions committee.

APPARENTLY IN HEALTH

Mayor Cookson was apparently in splendid health when he left Worcester Sunday morning. He departed on a special train carrying several members of the Massachusetts delegation to the convention, although he was not a delegate himself.

The fatal attack was the second heart seizure that had struck Mayor Cookson down since he took over the office early in January.

On January 6, he collapsed while laying the cornerstone of the nurses home at the Worcester City Hospital. He was incapacitated nearly two months and then for a while it was feared that he would not be able to resume office.

The mayoralty crowned 25 years of service for Worcester on Mr. Cookson's part. He had served on the school board nearly a quarter of a century and was widely credited with a real part in guiding Worcester schools to their present standards.

Although born in Rhode Island, he had lived in Worcester since he was four years old. In early manhood he had been a member of the Massachusetts National Guard, retiring in 1915 with the rank of first lieutenant.

His election in the mayoralty last November returned City Hall to Republican control after it had been two terms in the hands of John C. Mahoney.

Mayor Cookson defeated Representative Edward J. Kelley on an anti-Curley ticket. He promised home rule and careful financial management.

Before he left the mayor turned the reins of office over to William A. Bennett, president of the board of aldermen, who has been acting mayor this week and will continue in that capacity until a special election names a successor.

Forward With Landon!

WHAT THE American people will have to decide this fall has never been more concisely and luminously expressed than by Alfred M. Landon in his address at the University of Kansas when he said:

"WE SHALL HAVE TO DECIDE WHETHER THIS RETREAT OF CIVILIZATION SHALL SPREAD TO OUR OWN COUNTRY OR WHETHER THIS RETREAT SHALL BE TURNED BACK FROM OUR SHORES BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE."

The retreat of European civilization began when Russia became Communist in 1917.

That was the first great thrust at DEMOCRATIC INDIVIDUALISM, which had been steadily evolving toward Jeffersonian principles since 1776—since Runnymede, in fact.

Then followed the murder of democracy in Germany, Italy, Austria and Hungary and the MARCH BACK TO THE TOTALITARIAN NIGHT OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

With the inauguration of President Roosevelt "the retreat of civilization" reached America.

The Europeanization of America began with the NRA. REGIMENTATION and BUREAUCRACY—the twin tyrants—reared their heads for the first time in this country—sponsored by a party which was apostate to its great origins.

Now comes Alfred M. Landon, who WILL turn back this tidal wave from Europe of MARXIAN COLLECTIVISM AND FASCIST BUREAUCRACY which is known as the New Deal—but which, in reality, is a deal as OLD as human slavery.

FORWARD with Landon to a re-birth of AMERICAN CIVILIZATION!

HIGHEST COURT RULINGS HIT BY PRESIDENT

By STANLEY CARROLL

Little Rock, June 11 (US)—Proclaiming the Constitution "the best instrument ever devised" for fulfillment of American principles of self-government, President Roosevelt tonight solemnly pledged himself to "march forward under the broad purposes of that revered document."

Lashing out in what was interpreted by some as a distinct slap at the Supreme Court, for its rulings killing "New Deal" agencies, he said:

"Whether it be in the crowded tenements of the great cities, or on many of the farm lands of the nation, we know that there dwell millions of our fellow human beings who suffer from the kind of poverty that spells under nourishment and under privilege.

"If local government, if state government, after exerting every reasonable effort, is unable to better their conditions, to raise or restore their purchasing power, then surely it would take a foolish and short sighted man to say that it is no concern of the national government itself.

Declaring an intense complexity has supplanted the early simplicity of American life, the President asserted changing trends demand new approaches to national problems.

The President closed his address with a brief tribute to Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader of the Senate who faces a serious struggle at this time to retain his Senate seat.

The senator, who travelled to Little Rock as the President's guest, accompanied the Chief Executive to the stadium where he spoke and later played host to Mr. Roosevelt at dinner.

30-Cent Cambridge Robbery Snags Trio

Charged with robbery that netted them only 30 cents, three youths were held for arraignment in court today.

The trio gave their names to Cambridge police as Lawrence S. Belcamino, 21, of Thingvilla street, Cambridge; Edmund Dimick, 21, of Pleasant street, Somerville, and Bruno Colosimo, 19, of Holmes street, Cambridge. According to police, the trio attacked Joseph Carrig of Aberdeen avenue, Cambridge, while he was walking along Mt. Auburn street last night and robbed him of 30 cents.

Monsoon Balks Mt. Everest Climb

Darjeeling, India, June 11 (AP)—A monsoon screamed with new fury over the Himalayas today, bringing heavy snowstorms to balk a British expedition's attempt to scale Mount Everest.

Parliament Chief Slain in Spain

Madrid, June 11 (AP)—Antonio Romano, 62, president of the Malaga Provincial Parliament and the province's leading Socialist, was assassinated today in the city of Malaga.

Woman Gets Term As 'Social Menace'

Denounced by Judge James H. Devlin as a "menace to society," Mrs. Annette Shaheen, 39, of Waltham street, South End, was sentenced to serve a year and four months on drug and larceny charges, in municipal court today.

Although Mrs. Shaheen declared she had been "framed" by another woman, Judge Devlin accepted the story of Police Sergeant Thomas Joyce, who said she accepted marked money from two other women and sold them a drug.

"Dear Pres." -:- -:- By Winston Norman

Winston Norman, noted author of the "Dear Gov't" letters which have been appearing in the Hearst newspapers, is in Cleveland writing his impressions of the Republican National Convention. In the following "letter" he tells President Roosevelt and readers of the Hearst newspapers what he has learned so far.

CONVENTION HALL, CLEVELAND, O., JUNE 11.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

Say Mr. Roosevelt, you better stop loafin around and rush back home to work. Us Democrats got trouble on our hands. I been snooping on the convenshun and I seen Gov. Landon's little girl Peggy Ann.

Peggy Ann is age 19. She hefts about 100 lb. on the hoof and believes me, Mr. President, she surewhen I tell you, it was Mr. Hoover. is purty. She is the man we got to watch in this campaign. I seen her persnal & when she looks at you with them big soft eyes, a Democrat would fergit who he was and vote for her daddy and a White House weddin.

Well, I just seen the box-score on the nomination. Gov. Landon is battin a 580 out of 1000. That is better than Babe Ruth ever hit, so it looks like he will be in the big league.

Mr. Pres I been walking around and settin down till I am wore out on both ends. All of the delegates is in the same shape, so the meatin is kind of dull.

A man over there is trying to cheer folks up. He is a young Republican, age about 85, he just tuck his long white beard in his collar and yells, "Come on boys," he yells, "Let's make some noise, the party is dead as H—!"

Say, Mr. Roosevelt, who do you think come to town at 10 a. m. and begun to be the life of the party? You will fall off your train when I tell you, it was Mr. Hoover.

The first I knowed about it, somewheres around 3000 Republicans knock me down and trample on me. "Hey," I says, "let me up, what is all the chearin about?" A Republican helped me on my feet and says "we are chearin Herbert Hoover, he is the spryest Young Republican in town and the most popular ex-President alive."

Well, they are scairt of what Mr. Hoover will say. But I figger he will just kick like the Voice of Experince. He will tell them a man is crazy to live in the White House. The plumbing is OK, but you get a low grade of neighborz there in Wash.

Take you for instanse, Mr. Roosevelt, don't you oneet in a while get fed up with the company that you keep?

Well, I will close now and mop my brow. By golly, it is hot in this convenshun hall.

Yours till tomorrow,

W. NORMAN.

LANDON RIVALS ALL QUIT; KNOX LIKELY ON TICKET

WILD STAMPEDE TO KANSAN MAY MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

a dud. Mr. Hoover would have no part in any "stop Landon" movement, and the others decided it would be useless.

So, by seeming common consent today they renounced their own ambitions and decided to swing in behind the ticket of:

"Landon and—"

KNOX COOL TO IDEA

The blank will be filled tonight or tomorrow by the nomination of a vice-presidential candidate whose identity, as the convention sat for the third day, was not immediately clear.

Senator Vadenberg has said he would not take second place on the ticket; Senator Borah has never been a candidate for secondary honors; he turned down the vice-presidential nomination with Coolidge in 1924, when it meant certain election) and Colonel Knox is reported to be similarly uninterested in it.

In the next 24 hours the Landon managers and the other principal figures in the party will get together on a man. Meanwhile, the speculation was well-nigh limitless.

Governor Landon's actual nomination will be delayed until the party platform is approved.

The platform committee at noon was finishing next of the platform and meanings. It will be reported by 2:30 p. m., Eastern Daylight time.

MARTIN FOR 2D PLACE

The great body of delegates only part of whom knew what had been going on during the morning, assembled dutifully in the auditorium at noon. After a wait for three-quarters of an hour, they were called to order by the permanent chairman, Representative Bert Snell of New York.

Indications of the Landon slide were quite apparent inthe huge auditorium. Landon delegations came in with great banners portraying "the Coolidge of the West" and "Oh, Susanna," which unofficially has been designated as the Landon campaign song.

One banner proclaimed "Alf and Joe," with no other identification. The presumption was that "Joe" was Congressman Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, who is the Landon floor manager.

The galleries were packed, for a change. The preceding quiet session, they have been only sparsely populated, the visitors realizing that the fireworks would not come on the first two days. Today they looked for action.

STRONG MEN NEEDED

Almost at the same hour that the Landon opposition was breathing its last in the hotels a few blocks away, the convention was assembled and singing "America" and listening to a lengthy invocation by Bishop Joseph Schrembs of the Cleveland Catholic diocese.

"God give us men" was the burden of his pleas. He spoke of strong men, of great heart and of men fallh in these times of depression and uncertainty. The audience was quite unmoved when he concluded. They applauded vigorously. Bishop Schrembs is a popular figure in Cleveland.

"The next order of business," hawled Chairman Martin, "is the report of the resolutions committee for your chairman is informed that the resolutions committee will not be ready to report for a while."

RICHARDSON ROUTED

The convention then was regaled by the portly Colonel Lafe Gleason of New York, reading a list of the new national committee members. Sporadically, as the names were called, the various state delegations appuaided.

The Massachusetts delegation gave Representative Joe Martin's name a big hand. Martin was elected by the delegation here in place of John Richardson, who was defeated in the Bay State as a convention delegate when he ran as an anti-Landonite. Martin is the Landon floor manager.

While the routine business was being accomplished, word spread rapidly of the momentuous happenings of the morning—that Knox had withdrawn, that Borah would not permit his name to be presented, that Vandenberg had released his 34 votes from Michigan, that Dickinson had given up, and so on. The delegates chatted over these developments and paid little attention to the accessing votes of Colonel Gleason.

The retiring national chairman, Henry P. Fletcher, then proposed the ratification of the new national committee and it was boomed through with no dissent.

"WHO'S AFRAID?"

Representative Martin announced the platform committee would not be ready to report until 2:30 p. m., and Chairman Snell called for a recess until that hour.

A chorus of "yeas" approved the recess, at a militant minority, apparently impatient and anxious to get things concluded, shouted a stentorian "No."

"The ayes have it," said Snell, and banged his gavel. The delegates began streaming out to the tune of "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf."

Just how the Kansan's nomination is to be formally accomplished remains to be determined. With Landon's name seemingly to be the only one presented to the convention, he could be nominated by acclamation.

That probably will be done after John Hamilton, his youthful, aggressive campaign manager, makes his nominating speech. Certainly it will be done if the other candidates take steps to prevent their names being presented, as Borah, Vandenberg and Dickinson already have done.

After the platform is adopted by the convention the nominations for President will be in order. Hamilton expects Governor Landon will be nominated tonight and that the convention will then adjourn until tomorrow to take up the question of the vice-presidential nominee.

BREAKS OPPOSITION'S BACK

It has been apparent for days that the nomination of Governor Landon could not be prevented. The so-called "allies" could not get together, nor could they have mustered at any time sufficient votes to block Landon even if they could have got together.

It finally took the affirmative action of New York and Pennsylvania, however, to break the back of the Landon opposition completely.

The New Yorkers planned originally to "throw" Landon some thirty votes on the first ballot, and then sit back and await developments. Pennsylvania, at the request of ex-Senator David A. Reed, had decided to "wait."

But the delegates themselves from New York and Pennsylvania took matters out of the hands of the leaders, and decided their course. New York caucused and 85 out of the 90 wanted to go to Landon on the first ballot.

Pennsylvania met, and in excess of 50 of the 75 demanded that the Kansan be supported from the first ballot onward. The leaders had to bow to the inevitable—or cease to be leaders. So they bowed.

It was after these developments that Senators Borah, Dickinson and Vandenberg threw up the sponge.

With the nomination thus "in the bag," and virtually without a contest, the Landon people were keeping the wires hot between Cleveland and Topeka on the matter of the vice presidential nomination.

TO PICK OWN MATE

Invariably, the successful candidate always has been consulted about who he wants on the ticket with him. Gov. Landon is being consulted. Conferences during what promised to be a hectic day will determine that point—as well as the precise nature of the platform.

The jubilation around Governor Landon's headquarters was quick in taking effect. A gilly capatrioned band was in evidence as early as ten o'clock, tooting popular airs. And a lot of Kansans showed up with Uncle Sam uniforms.

California's delegates, who whooped things up for ex-President Hoover last night, had a caucus when they heard of the way things were going.

They voted to "support the Republican ticket," which was a left-handed way of saying they would vote for Governor Landon.

As for the platform, over which there has been and is continuing to be a real fight, the weary carpenters were inclined to believe today they had the solution. They went back into session this morning in a final effort to adjust differences after a night time of long distance telephoning to Topeka.

The Old Guard, so called, were on the outside looking in—or rather looking toward Topeka. It has been many years—if ever—since a Republican national convention marked time and telephoned to the prairies to find out what it could put into a party platform.

BORAH'S 2 BIG POINTS

Grim-visaged Borah has given his tentative approval to a tentative platform. If there is any final tinkering with it the Lion of Idaho is going to roar. If there isn't, then everything probably is going to be harmonious.

After nearly 40 years of effort, Senator Borah has at last got most of his ideas into his party platform —at least in the tentative draft.

His ideas prevailed concerning the monopoly plank. He has induced his party to become anti-Europe and anti-League. With regard to monetary policy he has stopped, temporarily at least, the plan of the Eastern conservatives to have the party go whole-heartedly for a return to the gold standard.

The Idaho senator is fairly well satisfied. He never had any real hopes of the nomination himself—after all, he is 70 years old—but he was determined that after four decades he would impress his economic and foreign affairs philosophy upon his party. That, he appeared to have accomplished.

HOOVER STAMPEDE FAILS

Several days in Cleveland—this, incidentally, is the first Republican convention he has attended in many years—have mellowed the Idahoan. He said:

"The first important step is the platform, but the candidate must conform to the platform to be right."

Earlier he had said that the efforts of ex-President Hoover's friends to stampede the convention were fruitless — as indeed they were.

Mr. Hoover excoriated the New Deal. He accused Mr. Roosevelt of attempting to set up a dictatorship; he "thanked God for the Supreme Court and the Constitution;" he distrusted what Mr. Roosevelt might do with respect to the judiciary if again elected for four years, mentioning Tugwell, Wallace and Ickes by name. He referred to the "wreckage of New Deal dreams" by the Supreme Court. All the New Deal has done, he said, has been to produce less, to increase prices, "so that people can buy less."

"Can the country stand it?" he asked.

Frequently throughout his speech the former President mentioned dictatorship and collectivism.

IN "HOLY CRUSADE"

He asked if fundamental liberties of the American people were not at stake, and the convention roared back at him a stentorian "yes."

"Are we engaged," he said, "in a holy crusade for freedom?" And again the answer came back "yes."

The New Deal, he asserted, has retreated from the American ideal and concept of government, and he asked:

"Shall we stop that retreat?"

And the floor answered again with a loud "Yes."

"Three Long Years Full of Grief and Tears!"

Assembled clockwise fashion, these Massachusetts delegates get together for a bit of close harmony at the Republican National Convention. To the tune of "Three Blind Mice," they're singing the Republican's new theme song, "Three Long Years," a phrase originated from Senator Frederick Steiwer's keynote speech. Starting with Mrs. Addison Green, in center, bottom, and reading counter-clockwise, the delegates are Joseph F. Francis, B. H. B. Draper, Miss Sybil H. Holmes, George C. P. Olsson, Eli M. Levatinsky and Charles W. Hedges.

Maine Joins Swing to Kansan

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY
Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Cleveland, O., June 11—Maine's delegation has joined the stampede to the Landon bandwagon.

"If it's to be Governor Landon on the first ballot, let's make it as big as possible," the spokesman for the Maine group declared after a caucus in which all of the 13 delegates were released from commitments made to particular presidential candidates.

Left to choose for themselves, at least 10 of the 13 Maine votes, it was reliably reported, will be cast for Landon on the first roll call.

The delegation originally had a strong Knox flavor, and the defeat of Miss Nettie Burleigh for national committeewoman had been interpreted as a rebuke to her for her Landon activities throughout the state.

TEST OF POPULARITY

By turning to Landon, the Knox men have in mind, first, the benefit which a big majority convention vote will have on the country as a whole, and second, the turning of the defeat of Miss Burleigh into a strict test of individual popularity.

In accordance with the first thought of former Lieutenant Governor Gaspar G. Bacon, chairman of the Massachusetts delegation, a poll of the delegates will not be taken until after the presidential nomination speeches have been made.

The first of the Landon seconding speeches will be made by the former Lieutenant Governor, an honor conferred upon the Bay State for its important part played in the primary.

PRESS FOR SHOWDOWN

Whether the delegates were to be polled sooner was settled definitely at a meeting in the Massachusetts delegates' headquarters at the Statler Hotel. Congressman Martin, Landon floor leader and new Bay State National Committeeman, explained the progress that the Landon candidacy was making and sided with Bacon in his judgment that the delegates should be allowed the utmost time in which to make a final decision.

One of those who had pressed for a showdown was Congressman Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge, a Landon supporter.

"We don't figure we'll have to force anyone who may have an honest opinion," the Congressman said. "It isn't necessary.

"We have plenty of people to act on the first ballot. It wouldn't make much difference whether we get 25 or 30 of the 33 Massachusetts votes."

"It makes a difference to Massachusetts though?" the Congressman was asked.

"Yes," Martin admitted. "I think it does."

While a dozen names were being mentioned for the vice-presidency, sentiment so far has failed to crystallize on any particular one among the Massachusetts men.

Governor H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and a coalition ticket of Landon and Douglas is being discussed, but both candidacies appear to have bogged down.

Every ear is attuned for some whisper from the Landon campaign on the vice-presidential angle. Once the presidency is out of the way, some of the old stagers are saying, the vice-presidency can be settled in a quarter of an hour.

PLATFORM FINISHED; LANDON WISHES COMPLIED WITH

omitted, the plank left no doubt that the Republican party would be committed against any form of inflation.

In a surprise move, the sub-committee rejected an outright demand for a constitutional amendment empowering the state to fix minimum wages.

A plank calling for federal regulation of public utilities was adopted. But a slam was directed at the Roosevelt administration in a declaration demanding that utilities should not be placed at the mercy of bureaucrats but should have the right of every individual and every other corporation to appeal to the court.

Chairman Herman Langworth of the full committee asserted the final draft would meet the views of Governor Langdon.

WANTS NO JUGGLING

The Kansas governor had been reported as wanting a revision of the social security, money and public utility planks.

A spokesman for Governor Landon said he wanted a clear-cut statement on the money question. The governor opposes any language which might be interpreted as committing the party to juggling for fiat money.

The proposed tariff plank was one of those which Landon forces wanted to revise.

Demands from members of the full resolutions committee for further changes were likely. The California delegation instructed its committeemen to urge opening up platform discussion to representatives of state delegations.

The sub committee also offered a plan to put all postmasters under civil service.

Revision of the reciprocal tariff treaty plank was considered. It was proposed to modify rather than repeal the Roosevelt administration law.

12 VITAL PLANKS

Vital planks in the platform agreed upon included:

1—Declaration for balancing the budget "as soon as it is humanly possible." A proposal to pledge a balanced budget in 18 months was rejected.

2—Revision of the federal tax system, starting on the premise of reducing taxes when possible rather than raising them. Denunciation of use of the tax system to coerce specific groups.

3—International stabilization of currency as soon as possible; pledge to repeal President's power of devaluing the dollar, restoring it to Congress; a currency expressed in terms of gold, but omitting reference to the gold standard; restore convertibility of money into gold as soon as possible without penalizing the country.

BANS "BANKING POLITICS"

4—Remove politics from the nation's banking system, including the Federal Reserve System.

5—Constitutional amendment permitting the President to veto individual items in appropriation bills as a measure of economy and to prevent "log-rolling" in Congress.

6—An anti-monopoly plank, framed by Senator Borah, except for one sentence dealing with legislation. Denounces monopoly and proposes to use federal power to bar products of monopoly from interstate commerce.

7—Abrogate all present reciprocal tariff treaties and repeal law.

8—Decentralization of relief, putting responsibility of administration on States, which would be given federal aid; bar politics.

9—Condemnation of crop restriction and "economy of scarcity."

FOR WOMEN'S WAGE

10—Give farmer benefits equal to benefits tariff gives industry, regain foreign markets, use tariff to preserve home market; revise farm loan system based on family-farm, instead of corporation farming; soil conservation and purchase of sub-marginal land.

11—Pledge to maintain a strong national defense.

12—Protection for women through minimum wage fixed by States, and a constitutional amendment to achieve this, if necessary.

Other planks in the platform charge the administration with broken promises; pledges the party to restore confidence; attack the unemployment problem and pledge a fair deal to labor, the veterans and other groups and social justice.

The first section of the platform pledge to maintain a sound currency was written by Senator Carter Glass and included in the Democratic platform of 1932. The remainder of the plank was designed to meet the views of Senator Borah.

Borah wrote the anti-monopoly, planks and anti-League planks.

BorahFavors Pension for All Over 60

Cleveland, June 11 (AP) — Senator Borah said today he favored a $60 a month pension for people over 60 years of age.

He made the statement to newsmen in discussing Republican platform plans.

Although he had taken no part in discussions of the Social Security plank, he had favored a plank calling for an old age pension.

"I am in favor of old age pensions of $60 per month for people over 60 years of age," Borah said, "and I expressed that view in conversations with some of the sub-committee members. I did not, however, submit a plank on that question."

PILGRIM ALE
IN 1620
The first ale brewed in New England, which means the first ale brewed in America, was brewed by the Pilgrims when they landed at Plymouth Rock. As a matter of fact, they settled there because their stock of ale was getting low and they wanted to brew some more.
In "The Journal of the Pilgrims" it says:
"We could not take time for further search or considerations, our victuals being much spent, especially our beer."

On Tap or In Bottles

IN 1936
Pilgrim Ale has been produced with qualities worthy of its name
¶ A smoothness that cannot be surpassed.
¶ An ale taste most delightful.
¶ An extremely pleasing hop flavor.
¶ A most gratifying fullness of body.
¶ A rich creamy head that stands up and lingers.
You want an ale that satisfies —then ask for Pilgrim.

TOWNSENDITES GAIN ALARMS MAINE G. O. P.

By LUTHER CONANT, JR.

Augusta, Me., June 11—Republican party leaders today declared Maine is 75 per cent against the New Deal.

They expressed more concern over Townsendism, not because the Townsendites are stronger than the Democrats, but because they present complications which are hard to solve.

There is an increasing probability of Townsendite victories in hotly contested battles for the Republican congressional nominations in the first and second districts at Monday's primary.

This situation has over shadowed rumors of eleventh-hour "horse trading" and the apparent tightening of the contest between Secretary of State Lewis O. Barrows and Blin W. Page of Skowhegan for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Organization of Townsend clubs has progressed rapidly for several months and the appearance of Dr. Townsend in Portland, Saturday, and here, on Sunday, may prove to have an important influence on the outcome of the primary contests.

The New Deal, on the other hand, is expected to decide the final issue at the September election, where Governor Louis J. Brann, Democratic critic of administration policies, will be the Democratic candidate for U. S. senator.

MAY WEAKEN BRANN

A political expert, who declined to be named, summed up the situation, as follows:

"Many feel that Governor Brann will be forced into coming out in full support of the New Deal.

"F. Harold Dubord, sole Democrat candidate for the nomination for governor, has already done so.

"There is little doubt but that Governor Brann will not be as strong running for senator as he was when he won the governorship.

"There is always the question of 'Quoddy.' Here the Governor will get all the glory and credit. But the importance of 'Quoddy' as a political issue is greatly over-estimated by the Democrats. With the exception of Washington and Penobscot counties, there is no real sentiment for the project."

NEW TOWNSEND MANAGER HERE

Confusion among Massachusetts Townsendites increased today when Joseph Bennett of Lowell replaced Glenn E. Richardson of Baltimore as acting state manager at Boston headquarters.

At the same time, Miss Oresta Arioli, 20, the dazzling secretary during the regime of Charles M. Hawks, who resigned 10 days ago to testify before the Congressional investigating committee in defiance of Dr. Townsend, was released to "cut down expenses."

Bennett was appointed by William H. Parker, assistant regional director at New York. Richardson will remain as his assistant for the time being' but Bennett's designation as "acting manager" further confused the unsettled situation.

Watson Heads Sales Managers

Wallace N. Watson, widely known insurance executive, was re-elected president of the Sales Managers Club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce at the annual election today. Harry R. Chapman was elected vice-president, and James H. Walsh secretary.

Charles W. Chamberlain, Henry Davis, Louis M. Hannum, Dr. L. A. Pratt, Karl M. Sayles, Dr. Harry R. Tosdal, Harry Troutwine and P. R. Ziegler were elected to the executive committee.

Dizzy Spells

Come from Constipation

Your doctor will tell you that nine times out of ten dizziness and headaches mean that your body is being poisoned by constipation. Nujol prevents them by removing the cause.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Countess Barbara Son Christened

London, June 11 (AP)—Lance, the three-and-a half-month's-old son of Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow and the former Barbara Hutton, was christened today in Danish services in the private chapel of Marlborough House.

About 75 persons watched the baby being carried into the church by his nurse, accompanied by his richly-dressed mother, the heiress to the Woolworth fortune.

The christening service was attended by the Danish minister, since the baby's father is a member of the Danish nobility.

Three to Talk

The Hon. William H. McSweeney, of Salem, Esq. Lawrence Curtis, and John Ingersoll, of the National Economy League, were to address members of the Ward 5 Republican Club at their monthly meeting today, in their club rooms 376 Boylston street.

Mrs. Whittaker Funeral Tomorrow

A solemn high mass of requiem will be sung in Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale, tomorrow for Mrs. Mary A. (Campbell) Whittaker, widow of the late Frank E. Whittakker, who died June 8 while visiting the home of her daughter, Mrs. Victor C. Carr, in Akron, O.

The funeral will be conducted from the home of a son, Ervine F. Whittaker, 289 Metropolitan avenue, Roslindale.

Auto Men Hosts To 2400 Children

More than 2400 happy Boston youngsters were given a holiday outing today at Lake Pearl Park, Wrentham.

The affair was the 29th annual outing sponsored by the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association for underprivileged children.

The children were picked up at various points, through the cooperation of the schools and the Salvation Army, and transported by bus and automobile to the park.

A big lunch and a day's fun on all the amusements were in store for them.

Probe Crushed

A proposed probe of the N. E. Watch and Ward Society's activities was crushed today when the unfavorable report on the resolve of Senator William F. McCarthy of Lowell was accept in the Senate.

DEVER REVEALS BOND DEALS OF DOLAN

from the $1,400,000 bond transactions, was only $2300, and on one transaction of $989.48, he received a commission of only $2.50, he said.

On another transaction, involving $3711.73 in bonds, he received a commission of but $10.

Robert G. Dodge, of special counsel for the city in the suit, attempted to learn through Dever how much the commission of the Legal Securities Corporation totaled, but Dever said he was unable to tell.

ON FLOOR ABOVE

Dever said his offices are on the sixth floor at 60 Congress street, directly above the offices of the Legal Securities Corporation. He has been in the brokerage business 30 years, 10 of them for himself, and has known Dolan for 15 years, he declared.

SMALL ACCOUNT

It was brought out in Dever's testimony that his bank account at the time he began purchasing bonds for the city was less than $1000.

The witness testified that in order for him to make the transactions it was necessary for him to obtain a check from the city first, deposit that in the bank, buy bonds from the Legal Securities Corporation—which, in turn deposited their check minus the commission paid Dever.

The largest bond transaction he made, Dever said, was one for $319,653.57, on December 22, 1930.

Pool on Dolan Testimony Figures

A pool on the figures presented daily in the Dolan case in superior court is enlivening the daily toil of courthouse employes and enriching some of them.

It was learned today that elevator operators, court officers, clerks and other employes are playing the pool, trying to guess the last three numbers of check or bond figures which come out in testimony each day.

The guess that is nearest the last three figures of the last sum mentioned, daily, wins the pool.

"Billy" Through—He Dies

Retired from service in the Boston police department yesterday, and sent to Red Acres Farm, Methuen, this 18-year-old horse died today, no more to roam in green pastures. Photo shows the horse "Billy", with his "pal" and rider, Officer William Vance of Station 16, who for 10 years has saddled him.

BLONDE DYING OF POISON DOSE

An attractive blonde was dying today at Rhode Island Hospital as a result, surgeons say, of poison she drank in her hotel room.

Registered as "Hilda Armstrong, Erie, Pa.," she took a room at the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, last night.

Groans attracted house employes to her room early today.

She lay writhing across the bed, clad in an expensive silk night gown. In the room were two bags of expensive clothes and in her purse were $100 in bills.

But she had left no note and would not explain why she had taken poison from a bottle that lay by her side.

DEAD OR ALIVE?

Clue to Men Sought in Suit

Whether William J. Donovan of Everett went to his death on a ship that was torpedoed during the war, or is still alive in New York, must be decided to straighten out a marital triangle involving an Everett policeman.

Patrolman John F. Cassin of Everett asked Judge John C. Leggat in Middlesex probate court today for an annulment of his marriage to Mary M. Cassin.

He said he married her Nov. 4, 1927, and that she obtained a divorce from him for alleged cruelty in February, 1934, when he was ordered to pay $10 a week alimony.

The policeman said both the divorce and the marriage were illegal because she had a husband, William J. Donovan, living at the time of the marriage.

Attorney Edward J. Bushell, representing Mrs. Cassin, argued that Donovan left home in 1916 and had never returned, and that his wife had a right to believe him dead.

He said Donovan had worked on various boats, as a horse tender, and that one of these boats was the British freighter Etonian, which was torpedoed by a German submarine in March, 1918.

"Donovan's name was not on the list of the crew, but there was a man named John Craig, whose description fits Donovan," said Bushell.

Patrolman Cassin's lawyer was Miss Inez DiPersio, who told Judge Leggat that she had a witness who had seen Donovan in New York last summer.

Judge Leggat said that the rule, under which a man may be considered dead after he has been absent seven years, does not apply to domestic relations cases, but Bushel was granted time to send an investigator out with photographs of Donovan, in an effort to prove him dead.

'I've Killed Father' Sobs Boy Thief

Chicago, June 11 (INS)—A 16-year-old boy, jailed on an auto theft charge today, startled police with the weird confession:

"I think I killed my father."

Sobbing hysterically, the boy, Emil Rudnick, said that on the night of June 1 he picked up his father, a WPA worker, in a stolen automobile.

"The old man," he said, "had been accusing me of stealing money. He started again and I lost my temper and beat him."

He said his father slumped to the car floor unconscious and that he "drove along and threw him in an empty lot."

The boy sobbed:

"He was a sick man and I shouldn't have hit him. He hasn't been heard of since and I'm sure I killed him."

The boy was to lead police in a search for his father's body today.

BABY HURLED OFF 'L'

Lands Safe on 'Catwalk' in N. Y.

New York, June 11 (INS)—A 22-months-old boy, a distraught mother, a drunken man and a modest 16-year-old youth were the players in a bizarre drama of the city today.

Mrs. Gertrude Cosgrove, with her son, Thomas, in her arms, was riding uptown in a crowded Third avenue elevated train and after standing for a time started to move toward a vacant seat. A drunk, espying the seat, started to rush for it and collided with Mrs. Cosgrove so violently that the baby was knocked from her arms through an open window.

The child landed on a narrow catwalk of the elevated structure 35 feet above the street as the mother and other passengers screamed and the motorman halted the cars.

While the passengers stood spellbound, a ruddy faced boy crawled through a window of the train and lowered himself to the catwalk. He picked up the badly frightened child and hoisted him back through the window. Then he climbed back.

Before anyone could learn his name the unassuming hero had vanished.

Funerals Held For Plane Victims

Two friends who met their end together lay in their last resting place today.

The two who died in an airplane crash are Joanne Cairamagia of Boynton street, Jamaica Plain, and Carlos Ferrara of Hansen street, Somerville.

The couple plunged to death from high above Revere when their airship took a 5000-foot dive.

It was the first time the girl had ever been up in an airplane.

Families of the two asserted today that reports of a romance between the couple were in error; that their association was one merely of friendship.

Broken Heart Kills Exiled Police Horse

Retired from service yesterday, Billy, most popular horse in the Boston police department, died today. Officers could see no reason other than a broken heart.

At 18 he was too old to go on duty any more, and he was due to go to the rest farm at Methuen today.

But when Stableman John Barry, at the Back Bay station, went for Billy to give him his breakfast, he found Billy dead in his stall.

All day yesterday officers had taken delicacies to the horse that had served in the department 14 years.

Patrolman William Vance, who had ridden Billy most in recent years, and who knew him better than all the other officers, is convinced the veteran sensed something was going to happen.

Billy will never gambol in the clover at the rest farm, but his glory is greater. The records will show he remained on duty until death.

Fog Halts Ships 5th Day in a Row

For the fifth consecutive day thick fog prevailed today along the New England coast and halted shipping.

Harbor officials, however, reported later the fog was lifting in the lower harbor, allowing one-mile observation. Several ships arrived after coming slowly through Cape Cod canal.

Dense fog with no observation was reported at Highland Light at the tip of Cape Cod and at Sandwich, easterly entrance to the canal.

Selling of Liquor To Minors Charged

As a result of a drive by police and alcohol beverage commission inspectors, against selling of liquor to minors and employment of a minor, three Randolph residents were ordered to appear in Quincy court today.

Due to illness, Mrs. Ida Kutzer, charged with employing a minor, was not in court and her case was continued to July 9. Melburne Amerault and Martha Hanscomb, charged with selling liquor to minors, had their cases put over to June 18.

Dr. Paine Forfeits $50 Bail in N. H.

Nashua, N. H., June 11 (AP)—Rev. George Lyman Paine, Cambridge, Mass., Episcopal minister and a descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, failed to appear in court today to answer charges of speaking without a permit.

Judge Frank Clancy ordered bail of $50 forfeited. Paine was arrested while speaking here last night at a rally for Norman Thomas, Socialist.

Woman Sentenced In Maine Death

Auburn, Me., June 11 (AP)—Superior Court Justice Edward P. Murray sentenced Mrs. Leonidas Thibault, 45, mother of a 18-year-old son, to two and a half to five years in State Prison today for manslaughter. She has pleaded guilty.

Police accused her of killing Alphonse Martineau, 37, whose body was found in a Lewiston rooming house, May 23.

Bartlett Stays On Polymet Case

Although he has resigned as Assistant United States Attorney, Charles W. Bartlett announced today that he would continue as special government counsel in preparation of the opposition to the appeal taken to circuit court by William L. Jarvis and others in the Polymet stock case. Bartlett paid high tribute to United States Attorney Francis J. W. Ford.

Bunker Hill Day Set by Governor

Governor Curley in an official proclamation today designated Wednesday, June 17, as "Bunker Hill Day."

In the proclamation the Governor urged "the citizens and the school children of the Commonwealth to hold exercises to commemorate an event so significant in the history of our country."

LIEUTENANT, 3 SERGEANTS IN POLICE SHIFT

General orders for the transfer of one lieutenant, three sergeants and three patrolmen were issued by Police Commissioner McSweeney today.

Lieutenant Joseph A. Buccigross, generally regarded as being groomed for a captaincy, was sent from Mattapan to East Boston.

Sergeant James J. Sullivan was transferred from the North End to Roxbury Crossing, Sergeant Francis R. McGeever from Charlestown to North End and Sergeant Francis P. McGuire from Back Bay to Dudley street. The latter was a vice and gambling raid leader under Captain Perley Skillings, recently succeeded by Captain Francis M. Tiernan in Division 16.

The patrolmen transferred were William P. Morrissey from North End to superintendent's office, Albert R. Dias from Warren avenue to superintendent's office and Patrick J. Mullin from superintendent's office to Milk street.

Martha Lee Gives Buffet Advice

Summer is admittedly the lazy season. So it was with an eye to the immediate future that Martha Lee instructed in the art of the buffet meal at yesterday's session of the cooking school.

The buffet party is the short cut to entertaining. And what's more it's in high fashion, said Miss Lee.

There's no danger of a buffet party being "stuffy." It combines informality and friendliness.

Who could be formal serving himself? A buffet party is sort of a home-cafeteria. And we don't go formal in a cafeteria.

It's just the thing for breakfast, lunch, tea and supper—for entertaining before a tennis match, after a swim, after cards, or dancing and at wedding receptions.

Miss Lee gave two illustrations of two settings of a buffet table. One featured the new dark dining cloth. For decoration candles were used.

A practical touch was the serving of buttered bread in sewing-work baskets already to be sandwiched by the eater.

Furniture and table accessories were by Jordan Marsh Company. Flowers by Penn, the Florist.

Next session of the school will be held June 23 and 24. Next week's classes are omitted due to the holiday.

Brookline Clings To 'Muddy River'

Community conscious Brookline residents were up in arms today over the offer of Mayor Mansfield of three prizes, totalling $50, for the persons suggesting the most appropriate name for Muddy River.

Brookline citizens are of the opinion the mayor is overstepping his authority in changing the name which has designated the stream for at least three centuries.

They also contend the river is in Brookline as well as Boston and that they have some rights regarding its name.

The mayor's offer is for prizes of $25, $15 and $10 for the three best names with the contest closing July 31. All selections will be judged by the Mayor and Park Commissioner William P. Long.

Gold Star Mothers Seek $50 Pension

Detroit, June 11 (INS)—Pension payments of $50 a month for all Gold Star Mothers, who lost their sons in the World War, were advocated today in a resolution adopted at the third national convention of American Gold Star Mothers here.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may get flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Texas Seeks Stars For Celebration

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, June 11 (US) — Exorbitant radio salaries pale into insignificance when compared with the huge amounts offered stars for an appearance at the Texas Centennial.

Particularly eager are the backers of the Electrical Pageant at Dallas to get native born Texans.

Ginger Rogers has been offered $5000 a night and, if arrangements can be made with RKO, she will accept.

John Boles has already agreed to accept $7500 for two appearances.

Adrienne Ames, Joan Crawford and others from the Lone Star state have been besieged by representatives to lend their glamorous presence to this exciting event.

Louella O. Parsons

So interested is Governor James Allred in the Centennial that he has agreed to play a scene in King Vidor's picture "Texas Ranger" and the camera crew is already in Texas. Dallas gets the first preview of this picture and that is as it should be since Texas is King's native state.

Can it be that England is angling for Greta Garbo? John Hopkins, former backer of Capitol, Ltd., flew into town via United Airlines and hinted that no one need be surprised if Greta makes a picture for Capitol within the next year. According to rumor, she is considering the offer because of her former association and friendship for Max Schaefi, at one time Germany's foremost producer and now an important member of the Capitol organization.

The Perry Mason character, so long the property of Warren William on the screen, has been bequeathed to Ricardo Cortez. With his new contract at Warner Brothers, Cortez begins playing the now famous character of the Erle Stanley Gardner series in "The Case of the Caretaker's Cat." This ought to make Ricky happy because he has been waiting to get away from heavy roles and be a hero and Perry is a hero. William moves to RKO if negotiations now under way materialize.

The friends of Jobyna Howland are comforted in the thought that she was supremely happy at the time of her death. Only two days previous she had been told by Irving Thalberg that she would be given the part of Mme. Duvernoy in Greta Garbo's picture "Camille." It is one of the outstanding roles and the best part that had been offered her in a long time. This, and her expectation of opening in "Call It a Day" had given her a fresh incentive.

Chatter in Hollywood: There was hot gossip and whispering around town that Gail Patrick had eloped with Robert Cobb, genial and popular head of the Brown Derby. Neither one could be reached since both were out of the city, but it wouldn't surprise their friends if this long expected marriage really took place. Gail has gone on a holiday to Vancouver with a party of friends and Bob has found an excuse to go to Seattle on business.

The John Golden play, "Ada Beats the Drum," which we mentioned was being prepared for the screen, has been handed over to Billie Burke and Frank Morgan as their first co-starring venture. They were also teamed in "Piccadilly Jim," but this is the first time they become headliners. I can't think of anything funnier than seeing these two together. Billie, with her fluttery ways, and Frank, with his inimitable forgetfulness, should make a hilarious combination.

Wonder what John O'Hara, well-known novelist, is planning to write in his Hollywood novel. He is around at the studios getting local color and one day this week turned actor when Lewis Milestone gave him a bit in "The General Died at Dawn." O'Hara is the author of "Appointment in Samara" and other fervid best sellers.

Snapshots of Hollywood

FRANK LAWTON says that if JUDY LAWTON, blues singer, is his sister it's news to him and all his family; he not only doesn't know her but never even saw her; the CLARK GABLE fight sequence showing his famous knockout looked so good in the projection room it's remaining in "Cain and Mabel"—the first bona fide knockout in a movie; SALLY RAND, booked for the Biltmore Bowl starting Friday, entertaining with a press party Thursday; she leaves for Skowhegan, Me., within a few weeks to play in "They Knew What They Wanted"; BOOTS MALLORY off for New York to join BILLY CAGNEY there acting as agent and manager for his brother, James; HARRY LACHMANN back from Coronado with a fine catch of fish; LILLIAN EMERSON, bromo seltzer heiress, set for a part in "Big Broadcast of 1937" at Para.; BOB MONTGOMERY, who takes his daughter Betty horseback riding every morning, has had to promise a cowboy outfit so they can do a western scene; MARY CARLISLE learning the intricacies of roller skating with two proficient teachers, JIMMY STEWART and JIMMIE BLAKELEY; CATHERINE DOUCET, fine stage actress who has lately become one of the screen's best character actresses, making her Los Angeles debut in "Call It A Day"; ANITA LOUISE arriving home with her mother Thursday from a European trip; AILEEN PRINGLE and WILLIAM LEBARON nightclubbing; TOM GALLERY and MADGE EVANS dining out; ditto CARL LAEMMLE, JR., and JUNE LANG; GENE RAYMOND presenting the JOHN MACK BROWNS with a 1926 flivver as a tin wedding anniversary gag. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Club Star

Dolores Farris, blonde dancer and former stage favorite, is one of the stars on the new program at the Brown Derby.

TracyBack In 'Fury' Lead

Starring Sylvia Sidney and Spencer Tracy, "Fury," a hard-hitting film depicting group lawlessness in America, is the feature picture of an important program which opens tomorrow at both Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

"Fury" has been directed by Frits Lang, and was prepared for the screen by Bartlett Cormack from a story by Norman Krasna. Mr. Tracy and Miss Sidney play the roles of two young Americans who plan to marry. He is arrested as a suspect in a community where a kidnaping has occurred. Circumstantial evidence and rumors cause a furious attack on the prison where he is held.

When a frenzied mob is prevented from seizing their innocent victim, the prison is fired. The story now marches along a course of vengeance on the part of the vengeful spirit of Mr. Tracy and his two younger brothers.

They pursue the men and women responsible for the murder and 20 are convicted. The denouement in the courtroom is heralded as one of the most tense scenes ever filmed. Included in the cast are Walter Abel, Bruce Cabot, Edward Ellis, Walter Brennan, George Walcott and Frank Albertson.

The companion feature is "Speed," with James Stewart and Wendy Barrie. It tells a story of test pilots in the automobile industry. Una Merkel, Weldon Hayburn, Ted Healy and Ralph Morgan are in the supporting cast.

Graces Penthouse Stage

Ruth Sato is the talented little lady who is headlining the program at The Penthouse, the theater-restaurant atop the Hotel Bradford. Ruth, who is a Japanese dancer, is proving to be one of the most popular stars ever to appear at a Boston night club.

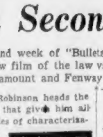
Lewis Story Tops Olympia Bill

Pat O'Brien and Josephine Hutchinson in Sinclair Lewis' "I Married a Doctor," a Warner Bros. production, co-featured with "The Golden Arrow," starring Bette Davis and George Brent, is the program for Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Washington street Olympia.

"Bullets or Ballots" In Second Week

The second week of "Bullets or Ballots," First National's absorbing new film of the law vs. the rackets, began today at both the Paramount and Fenway Theaters.

Edward G. Robinson heads the cast in a role that gives him all the opportunities of characterization that were afforded by "Little Caesar."



E. G. Robinson

The high popularity mark reached by "Bullets or Ballots" in its first week of playing may be imagined when it is considered that only once previously this season has a picture been "held over" on the twin screens. "Bullets or Ballots" is the story of racketeers who are supposed to be men of high position in society and in finance. The story was written by Martin Mooney, New York American reporter who exposed the "number-pool racket" in New York and then took a 30-day jail sentence for his refusal to name the source of his information to the court.

Mr. Robinson's performance is one of the highlights of the year. Joan Blondell has the leading feminine role, and others in the cast are Barton MacLane, Humphrey Bogart, Frank McHugh and George E. Stone.

"The Sky Parade," a romantic drama with a background of aviation, is the other full-length picture at the Paramount and Fenway. Jimmie Allen, Kent Taylor, Katherine de Mille and William Gargan are in the cast.

Pickens Sisters At Met

Filmdom's current new romantic "rave," young Robert Taylor, is co-starred with Loretta Young in "Private Number," the feature picture which shares attraction-honors with the famous Pickens Sisters (in person) at the Metropolitan Theater tomorrow.

The Pickens girls headline a musical revue called "Broadway Glamour," which employs the talents of 50 others. Miss Young and Mr. Taylor are united for the first time as "love team" in "Private Number," and their scenes has been so popular that "Private Number" is pondered as of the outstanding films of the season from the studios of Twentieth Century-Fox.

Supporting the stars are Patsy Kelly, Basil Rathbone, Marjorie Gateson, Jane Darwell, John Milijan, and Monroe Owsley. Roy Del Ruth directed the production.

Besides the Pickens sisters, "Broadway Glamour" features Harry Ades, Dennis White and Billie Burke, and Tom, Dick and Harry, Schichtl's Royal Wanderettes, one of the best of the maestro's productions, in a feature, and Sevitzky and the Grand Orchestra, another.

There's Music in the Air and on the Screen

"Let's Sing Again" is the title of the new film which began a week's engagement at the RKO Keith Memorial today. This scene from the film shows George Houston, Bobby Breen and Vivienne Osborne in a happy mood.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Ellery Lyons had never worked. In the old days it hadn't been necessary. His share of the Lyons money had been enough. But in the last year or two the income had dwindled and dwindled until it had almost disappeared altogether, and now that he wanted a job he didn't know how to find one, nor would have known what to do with it had he found one.

So he settled down to write a book.

Edith and the girls believed in the book, and Ellery talked about it to all who would listen. Edith managed the rent of the Pacific avenue flat they had had so long by [illegible] and dismissing the maid.

"If a girl was [illegible] need [illegible] A [illegible] would go [illegible] at Ardis [illegible] and [illegible] handmade [illegible]

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Girl 'Who Watches Step' Seldom Falls Victim To Temptation

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Watch your step. If you don't, everyone else will.

This is excellent advice for all young women, especially those who sneak out at night to meet boys on the sly.

A girl goes on probation the day she reaches her fourteenth birthday, and she usually stays there—at least until she marries. The world judges her according to the things she does, the places she frequents, the friends she makes. Her future will be as she fashions it, neither better nor worse.

There were temptations—plenty of them in the horse-and-buggy days. Our mothers knew them and avoided them. But today there are tens of thousands MORE temptations. The wise young women has to be proportionately cautious.

The girl in her teens or early twenties doesn't have to be a prim little spinster. This is the freest, openest age in the history of the world. Young women can do scores of things, any one of which would have put them in chains a century ago. Yet the old standards of morality and respectability exist, as they always will exist and woe be to girl who partakes too liberally of this new freedom.

The young woman who "watches her step" has little to fear. The dangers we old-sters deplore so much will have little attraction for her. Men are bound to respect her, none more than the man she marries.

Here are my letters and answers for today.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

In these days where there are so many superficial beliefs rampant, it is heartening to read your comforting advice to "Mommy" and to know that your own spiritual convictions make it possible for you to direct her to the never-ending source of comfort that has helped many a sorrowing heart to go on.

If "Mommy" could just thank God for the two years she had with her baby and for the beautiful memories she must always have. Her purpose should be to cheer her husband and not to make his grief harder to bear.

It is only by radiating happiness and cheering others that we can be happy ourselves. And if "Mommy" would take your advice and adopt a little orphaned child, she would never regret it.

What a joy it will be for her at the end to hear God's "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

M. J. R.

MY DEAR READER:

Your letter is beautiful, and I know "Mommy" is going to feel the happier because of her reading it. You love children, I can see. Would that all woman had your philosophy!

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am sorry to offer my deepest sympathy to Miserable and, at the same time, to tell you of my unfortunate experience.

I, like Miserable, have been keeping company with a young man for nearly a year. He had never been out with a young woman before, and was by far the nicest boy I ever met.

Up to seven months ago we were very happy. And, like Miserable and her friend, we thought our love would never die. But now he is so indifferent, so silent whenever I try to arouse his interest in anything.

What causes conduct of this kind, Miss Fairfax?

M. F.

MY DEAR CHILD:

Possibly your friend is ill. That would explain his new indifference. Or, maybe, he is worrying over unemployment or over the welfare of some member of his family.

There are so many things that might be the trouble that I really cannot put my finger on the right one. However, my advice to you is to keep on being the charming girl that won the admiration of this boy.

If he loves you, and I think he does, he will be his good, healthy self in a month or so.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

How far does a man's responsibility extend?

My most intimate friend is a son who by hard work and sacrifice, attained a fairly good position.

His mother's father and his father's brother are still alive and feel that it is his duty to care for them in their old age. They both held fairly good positions and, while neither of them were sports, they spent their money and never saved a penny.

The son is married and has three children. He is willing to care for his mom and his wife's parents, but he does not think he should shoulder the responsibility of additional relatives.

What is your opinion?

MRS E C

MY DEAR FRIEND

A son who contributes to the best of his ability toward the support of his parents is doing his duty. Nothing more can or should be asked. But when he agrees to also help his wife's parents, he is one man in a thousand.

There is a limit to what can be asked of any one man. And, in my opinion, he would be absolutely justified in refusing to give a cent to relatives other than his own or his wife's parents.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Married Comrades

By Adele Garrison

CHAPTER 28

I HAD PLENTY of time for introspection and retrospection before Mary and Noel came back to the living room, where I waited to hear the outcome of their interview with my offended mother-in-law.

It was nearly half an hour before they came to me, but I saw with satisfaction that the Interlude, curiously enough, had given Noel's tautened nerves a certain release.

His eyes were no longer as filled with tragedy as they had been, and I was glad that Katie had persuaded me to let her plan a heavier luncheon for the youth than his protests had led me to believe he could eat.

"You look as if victory perched upon your banner," I told them, but in cautious low tones, for I did not know the whereabouts of my mother-in-law and it behooved me to be wary in speech, as I was sure that she had not forgiven me for Junior's malapropos revelation of the instructions Katherine and I had given them concerning the giving of food to the baby.

NOW IN FAVOR

"It has," Mary assured me merrily. "And you don't need to pitch your voice so low. Grannie has taken us to her buzzom, and we are now in high favor, but I am afraid you and Aunt Katherine are in her bad graces. At least, she carefully avoided all reference to you, and allowed that she means to read and rest in her room for the remainder of the day. She added that as she was no longer needed anywhere she might as well give some attention to her own comfort."

"That doesn't mean she's going to stay in her room very long," I said, speaking from long experience of my mother-in-law's temperamental ways. "But she's safely there for a half-hour at least. And Kate has luncheon nearly ready. So if you want to brush up a bit beforehand you'll use any room that is nearest at hand."

PREPARE TO EAT

"I could do with a bit of prinking," Mary said, and looking over at her young husband, she added with a mischievous twinkle of her eyes, "and so could you, dar-ee. So get your lipstick and powder, while I'm getting mine."

"Mary!" Noel expostulated, but she was already out of the room and with a toss of snake of her head, he followed her, both of them returning in a few minutes looking immeasurably refreshed.

"No sign of grannie yet," Mary said in a low voice, "so it's safe to tell you what she said (curiously enough, I didn't have to do any finessing at all. She had the same plan in mind that you had—for me to stay out here while Noel has this work on hand—of course, she doesn't dream what the work really is, and all I had to do was to lead her to believe that she was the originator of the plan, and that I was acquiescing in it, and would tell you about it.

"She was a bit high hat at that, saying that she fancied she had a right to welcome her granddaughter to her home without consulting anybody, and as I agreed with her thoroughly, we left her quite composed."

THEY LEARN OF SCHEME

I drew a breath of relief. I would not utter the thought aloud to Mother Graham's granddaughter but to myself I said that the temperamental old woman was past the "martyr" stage in which she declares herself to have no right whatever in her son's household. She was sounding an arrogant note now, and I knew that it was but a question of an hour or so before she would come downstairs, magnificently ignoring everything that had passed in the nursery.

"I am glad of that," I said aloud. "And now, before you go in to luncheon, I want to tell you of a scheme I have evolved for you."

I was really engaged in the famous old task of "killing two birds with one stone." I wanted to mitigate their separation as best I might, and I also wanted to spar for time before taking them to luncheon. Katie's broiled chickens take just so much time in Katie's schedule, and woe betide anyone who tries to hurry the process.

They turned expectant, suddenly hopeful faces to me, and I hurried on.

"What things did you bring out with you, Mary?"

"Only enough for two or three days' stay," she said.

"I can supplement your wardrobe for a few days," I told her. "Now, let us see. Today is Tuesday. Suppose we say that every Wednesday I will bring Mary to the apartment. You can make that day the one which each week I necessarily spend in the city. We will be at the apartment at 10 o'clock sharp, and you can telephone her any time after that hour.

"You also can manage some scheme by which you can see her during the day or evening, for we shall not leave until the next morning after the hour you have to leave for the mysterious vigil your father has asked you to keep. What do you say to my scheme?"

'Hair-Do' May Accentuate Your Best Features

By DONNA GRACE

WE LIKE to see women interested in new hair styles. It means they are keeping alert to the trend of fashion, and also that they are keeping young.

A new coiffure will always give one a sense of well-being and pride, and we always are impressed with the advantage of smart hairdressing when we go among fashionable groups of women.

The smartly-gowned woman or girl is sure to be wearing a new coiffure in keeping with her attire. You know the better dressed women change the new hairs to conform with the changes in hairdressing, and with a little thought and discrimination one should have no trouble in selecting a harmonious ensemble.

The hair worn high with a small or medium headdress and slender neck can usually wear any style, but for the ones whose headdress is over 22 in. and with the naturally full neckline there are some don'ts to be observed in the years coiffures.

In many of the new styles there is a tendency to roll the hair back from the face. There is usually a center part and the roll begins just a bit away from the part on both sides and circles the head. It is a smart and sleek arrangement, but not good for the girls with large heads and short necks because it adds width and size to the whole effect.

Another new style is the smooth, unwaved back hair. This will also make the most tired eyes look large and round. Large heads and full faces need these lines in hair arrangement to lessen the full-moon effect, and it is done with side parts and soft, flat waves that can even be arranged to follow the face.

The important thing is to find how the hair thinned and shaped well to the contour of the head. The back should be done with a swirl at the occipital curve and all of the thickness must be removed back of the ears and at the neckline. Enough hair is left however, for a finish of soft curls—

Never leave a severe line, as this, too, will add to the size and detract from the refined, feminine charm.

You may have my Hair Style Chart, if you will enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. Address Donna Grace, Boston Evening American.

Q—How can I eliminate sagging lines about the chin and neck?

M.

A—To help eliminate sagging lines about chin and neck first cultivate correct posture while walking and working keep your shoulders back, your chest high, chin in, head held up on a straight neck.

Practice the following exercises:

Tense all the neck muscles that move the head backward against the muscles that move it as far as possible. Move head forward until the chin touches the chest. Continue twenty counts. Turn your head back and forth as an exaggerated chew the motion ten or twelve times.

Massage your chin gently but firmly with a good cream working from point of chin downward. Then pat briskly under the chin and under the contour lines even with back of ears. Finish by tying up the chin with a band of gauze soaked in ice water and drenched with astringent.

How to Avoid Poison Ivy

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A reader of these articles suggests that now is the time to write something about the evil effects of poison ivy.

Weeks will be going into the country and to hunt for wild flowers and often people will come in contact with poison ivy, poison oak.

If more persons were familiar with the ivy plant the poisoning would not be so common. The poison ivy, known as "Rhus toxicodendron," trails over the ground often covering a considerable area. It rarely rises more than a few inches from the ground, although it may climb a tree or fence post, and some harmless vine. It is easy to recognize because its leaflets are arranged in clusters of three with the one of the middle leaf longer than the other two. The leaves are thick, shiny and rarely show any imperfection of formation.

Poison sumac, or rhus venenata, is more difficult to recognize than poison ivy. It has a compound leaf of many leaflets and can be recognized only upon close scrutiny, when it is found that the leaf has a curved midrib.

Exposure to either one of these plants leads to itching or burning of the skin. Small blisters soon form and the skin becomes red and swollen.

If you have been exposed to poisoning by ivy and sumac the itching and inflammation of the skin, take a warm bath and thorough ly scrub the body with an alkaline soap. Follow this with an alcoh l sponge. If alcohol is not available, gasoline may be used.

Relief of the itching is obtained by applying a soothing preparation, such as calomine lotion. Hyposulphate of soda, a tablespoonful to a half glass of water, makes an excellent local application.

Son 'Job-Doggle' Of Ickes Scored

Youth Placed on Mass. Project

ROBERT H. ICKES
His Appointment Arouses Veterans

War veterans, civic leaders and public officials today roundly denounced the action of Secretary of Interior Ickes, head of the Public Works Administration, in edging his college-graduate son into a job on the big Woburn-Winchester-Medford sewer project.

It was pointed out by all the critics of Ickes' action that there are many veterans who would be grateful for a $15 to $20-a-week job, for the support of their families.

It was also widely remarked that Massachusetts is unable to procure jobs, while Robert H. Ickes, 23, was sent here from Illinois to go to work, three days after his graduation from Lake Forest University.

About all that was said on the other side was the statement of J. Arthur Garrod, state engineer inspector for the Public Works Administration, which is building the sewer, that young Ickes would have to "work paid as Father Ickes ordered."

WOULD HELP VETERAN

State Adjutant Henry V. O'Day of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who was much surprised to learn that young Ickes had gone to work for his father on taxpayers' money, said:

"It would seem to me there are any number of veterans with families who are at present out of work and who could fill the sort of position the Ickes boy has been given as an inspection clerk.

"Although he says the pay is small, nevertheless $15 or $20 would come in very handy to several veterans I know living right in Winchester. They have been out of work for many months.

"While I can appreciate that a young man, just out of college, is anxious to get himself placed in employment as soon as possible, it would seem to me that veterans who have always lived in Massachusetts should be given preference over a boy just out of school, and especially over a boy from another state.

"Frankly, I believe in distributing local jobs among local residents. I believe such a policy should be followed here regardless of who may seek favor."

Mayor George Bates of Salem said:

IT'S "PECULIAR"

"In view of the great number of unemployed, which includes high school and college graduates who have been walking the streets not just for months but actually for years, in vain search for work, it does seem peculiar that a youth should be brought from Illinois to fill a position on a PWA project.

"I have no personal objection to the Ickes boy getting a job and attempting to make his way in the world. But it would seem to me that if he had been placed on a PWA project in his own state, rather than in Massachusetts—where the Lord knows we have plenty of young college graduates begging for just such a position—it would have been more in keeping with the original purpose of these projects."

Mrs. Philip Woodward, assistant director of the National Economy League, said:

CITES CONTS

"I am amazed to learn that jobs have been opened up to the sons of parents who are perfectly well able to support them.

"Certainly the taxpayers of this country can not be expected to support Secretary Ickes' son in a job which was intended as a relief project.

"I believe the taxpayers are paying the secretary of the Interior a sufficiently large amount to support his own family already.

"Why should we be called upon to spend an extra $1000 a year on his son?

"There are plenty of needy people, plenty of unemployed in this country who, if they have been able to obtain relief, have obtained it only under the greatest difficulties.

"This is certainly a clear example of the spoils system and the taxpayers should demand his immediate resignation."

DEADLINE FOR BONUS PAPERS

By THE BONUS EDITOR

Veterans! Today is the deadline for bonus applications, if you would receive your bonus on the night of June 15.

Harold E. Kiley, at the bonus office of the bonus at 1 State street, said today:

"If a veteran wants to be reasonably sure of receiving his bonus bonds on the 15th he had better apply no later than today, if he hasn't heretofore. Otherwise the bonds will follow the course of a regular registered letter. And if the veteran is not at home when the mailman calls after that date, in all probability he will have to call at the postoffice for his bonus bonds."

Mr. Kiley said approximately 50,000 cards certifying applications had been received and checked were sent out to veterans in Massachusetts since last January.

It has been estimated there are 250,000 veterans in Massachusetts, which would leave about 200,000 that have not acted yet in regard to the bonus bonds due them.

At the federal building a marked increase in the number of veterans applying for a bonus daily was reported this week. A daily average of 500 men was reported.

Veterans, Note!

Veterans, the following instructions are the shortest route to your bonus:

1—Be at the address you gave in your bonus application from 5 p. m. on Monday, June 15, until postman arrives. If you have moved to another address in the same county, notify Colonel William J. Blake, Veterans Bureau, Room 608, Federal Building, Boston.

2—When postman arrives, have someone known to him identify you.

3—Veterans in the Boston postal area may take their bonds to one of the 23 certifying units and exchange them for an interim receipt, so that within 24 to 48 hours they will be sent a Government check. Identification can be by one satisfactory witness known to certifying clerk. No identifying witness is necessary if veteran is personally known to certifying clerk.

4—The check may be cashed through your bank, your place of employment or by a business connection where you are known. If you have a bank account, your bonds may be certified there and the bank will collect your check for you.

5—Veterans who expect to be absent from home on June 15 should notify the postoffice where they will be on or near that date. If in a foreign port the U. S. consul is authorized to certify their bonds and assist in making application for a Government check. In making such an application give the address to which you wish the check mailed.

Girl in Fight For Life 30 Days

After a full month's battle for life in an oxygen tent at the City Hospital, Miss Virginia Mikkalo of Minot street, Dorchester, was holding her own against pneumonia today.

Her name has been on the danger list for 30 days and her condition is still as critical, doctors said, as when she was first placed in the tent but her spirit is greatly aiding her fight against the dread disease.

Curley Proclaims Sunday Flag Day

Next Sunday will be "Flag Day," according to a proclamation by Governor Curley extolling the Stars and Stripes as a "great emblem of peace" as well as a "starry banner that inspires bravery on the battlefield."

The governor urged a display of flags in "every city, town and hamlet from the Berkshire Hills to the shores of Cape Cod."

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

ROBERT E. ROGERS

I have just been listening to the keynoter of the Republicans at Cleveland. It is shortly after 10:30 of Tuesday evening here in these parts, which means that it is about 9:30 there, not so bad considering that it is only the shank of the evening.

I am ashamed to say that I do not even know the gentleman's name and I do not care much. I can remember when I used to hang figuratively on the lips of any Republican on the mike. I remember vividly some thirty years ago or thereabout listening with enthusiasm to the late Mr. Curtis Guild and the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge when in the course of their summer campaign tour they reached Oak Bluffs, Marthas Vineyard, that stronghold of Republicanism, when to be a Republican meant everything in this state.

They were pleasant gentlemen enough and I thought they were big medicine. Both of them died without ever dreaming that the Commonwealth they served was going to go thoroughly Democratic.

Baker's Great Speech At Tech Without Notes

They passed on without knowing that the time would come when no Republican, nationally speaking, would have a look-in. Had they foreseen that sad fact they probably would have blamed Theodore for it all.

But I was going to say that when I turned the radio on to the keynoter and heard that familiar, excited, anguished boom-boom of a politician earning his keep—well, I dialed him out again. I just couldn't stand him, not as a political thinker, but merely as a speaker.

In the past two days I had heard two very great speakers. What attracted me to them was the fact that neither of them used a single note, let alone manuscript. And the older I get the more I heartily admire that sort of man.

The first was Newton D. Baker, speaking at the Tech commencement exercises. I know he was speaking ex tempore because Jim Rowland, the Tech press representative, had sought from him a manuscript and had been told there wasn't going to be any manuscript.

Besides, I could watch him from my seat on the platform and can testify there was no trace of a script. That strong, quiet voice of his went steadily ahead, using perfect diction (which, by the way, means choice of words and not good pronunciation), marshaling his thoughts in shining order, developing his perfect sentences without a break or hesitation, as intimately, persuasively, perfectly as you could wish. One seemed to be able to watch a great legal and statesmanlike mind at work with perfect ease and clarity, as if before the Supreme Court, without a hint of the shouting and excitement one associates with political speeches.

The other man had no notes, either, so far as I could determine, but where Mr. Baker was all calmness, deliberation and peace, this other man was the most volient of trapeze performers. He is, I think, the funniest man in the United States, one to whom humor is a kind of sideline to his great accomplishments in other fields.

He Gets Laughs When There Might Be Tears

He is Dr. George E. Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation and a man of very considerable parts. He was speaking to the Tech Alumni at Symphony Hall on Monday evening. That comparatively hard-boiled and unhumorous body laughed till they cried. When you can make a bunch of transportation executives laugh, when they have just been listening to Federal Co-Ordinator Joseph B. Eastman hint at what he plans to do to the railroads, you are doing a pretty gorgeous piece of work. And Vincent did it.

Baker was quiet and deliberate. Vincent rushed at the mike beaming all over, and before you knew it he was launched on a comic diatribe on "The Unpopularity of Brains." And how he did enjoy his own sardonic cracks at the American mind, that doubled up his entire audience!

I never heard anyone like him. He talked about five or six times as fast as Will Rogers used to, almost as fast as Floyd Gibbons, and he thought twice as fast as both of them. And he said something every second.

That is why the regular political speech (from manuscript) leaves me cold these days. Even if it was good I wouldn't like it. I admit that Baker's speech would read perfectly while Vincent's explosive and breathless series of impromptus would look pretty scrambled on paper. But in both cases there was an extraordinary personality behind the words, and brains of a very high quality.

Perhaps therein lies the real difference.

ANN MARSTERS IN HOLLYWOOD

7A.M. Artist Gilds Lily, Developing New Joan Blondell

The Boston Evening American presents herewith the fifth story in a series of intimate glimpses into the life of filmland's capital — "ANN MARSTERS IN HOLLYWOOD." Miss Marsters is being given entree to all of the studios, and is writing her stories from behind the scenes in the land of make-believe. These stories will appear daily.

By ANN MARSTERS

Hollywood, Calif., June 11—It was early in the morning; so early the Hollywood countryside was indistinct with mistiness and dew. It was 6 o'clock—the hour when the stars go to work.

It was 7:30 when I reached the Warner Brothers studio in Burbank in search of Joan Blondell. The flowers that grew before her dressing room door and in pretty rows along the walk, were fragrant and fresh in the sunlight.

Joan was already there. She had, as a matter of fact, been there for more than an hour. Her hair had been washed, her curls set and covered with a net, and now her head was half hidden by a huge electric dryer. (I was glad, that morning, that I was not a movie actress, because I don't like to get up so early, and I don't like to sit under dryers.)

Predicament No Aid to Beauty

There are many hours in a star's life that are not the least bit "glamorous" or "exciting." Of course you only see them at their best, when they are groomed and clothed to perfection. But here is your chance to see, step by step, the process that culminates in that perfection.

Joan Blondell herself will show us "how they get that way."

It is a morning like any other morning in Joan's workaday life. Only the pictures change—and at present she is working in the Warner Brothers' production "Stage Struck" with (significant fact) Dick Powell.

No woman can look ravishingly beautiful in such a predicament as we find Joan. Even so—when she smiled up at me from under the dryer, she still looked pretty much like her very pretty self. That's saying a lot—so you needn't be disillusioned.

"Sit down and have a cup of coffee," she said. Her hairdresser had made coffee in the next room of Joan's suite. (We are in her non-portable dressing room, and there are a whole row of them along this particular studio street.)

Her make-up man was ready with his tools. He wheeled away the dryer, covered Joan's head with a towel, and she settled herself in what looked like a barber's chair—or a dentist's.

So this is the process—from beginning to end:

Lips Put on With Paint Brush

From a little jar comes a clay-yellow grease paint which is smoothed generously over her face and neck. Then a quantity of dark powder is patted over it and brushed gently with a soft brush.

"How do I look?" she laughed, and I could only say that she looked very yellow. Even the outline of her lips had vanished.

Eyebrows next. Carefully and slowly they are pencilled to the proper shape. Her eyelids are darkened with blue—and her face begins to take on life and expression.

How fascinating are the eyelashes; Long and thick, they come straight from their little box; needing only a touch of glue to become part of milady's loveliness.

"Oh what beautiful eyes you have."

"The better to vamp him with," says she—but she cannot say another word, for a while, because she is acquiring a new pair of lips.

The make-up man dips an ordinary paint brush into a rouge pot, and goes to work. He draws the outline first, practically ignoring the natural line of her lips, which are not quite as full as you see them on the screen. (You'd be amazed at what they can do for a girl in Hollywood.) When they are "filled in" he compares them with the crimson print of yesterday's lips. It (the print) is on a towel which had been pressed against her mouth for this purpose of comparison.

The "artist" glances from Joan's lips to the towel and back again. No—they are not QUITE the same. They must be altered until today's lips are an exact duplicate of yesterday's. (For just think how puzzled you'd be if you should see her on the screen with several different mouths.)

A little upward line is added to each corner of her mouth. (You can't detect it,

ANN MARSTERS

Suffering in the name of Art and Beauty? Not at all! The lovely Joan Blondell confides to Ann Marsters, Boston Evening American's feature writer, she really enjoys her morning make-up with coffee, despite that huge device she wears on her head. Three hours of this, starting before sunrise, and Warner Brothers' star dons that touch of appeal she wears so prettily on the screen. Her off-stage allure is more natural, Miss Marsters reveals, but the camera is a severe taskmaster; his demands rigorously exacting, so it's a session with the make-up expert every day. In her new vehicle, "Stage-Struck," Joan appears with Dick Powell, which is more than just coincidence to Hollywood.

JOAN BLONDELL

Finished product, loveliness itself! That huge dryer has prepared Joan Blondell's hair for alluring ringlets, the makeup man has given her lips rich fullness and her eyes have a deep-blue luminosity so bewitching on the silver screen. No wonder Dick Powell says "Good morning, honey," when he pops into her dressing room at the Warner lot. They are together in "Stage-Struck," and off set it's practically impossible to find them separated, Ann Marsters reveals.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Marjorie McBride

Among the animal trainers at Franklin Park Zoo, the universal favorite's "Old Waddy." He is an Indian elephant, now rising 70 years. Waddy has been at the zoo for 22 years. He's a little bit shaky on his pins, of course, and his eyesight isn't what it used to be.

MARJORIE McBRIDE

Waddy's a showman in his heart, and a good-natured beast, who gets along fine with his handlers. He's learned the rules for an animal in captivity. He can do everything but read the election returns. His only rival in the affections of the men is "Happy," the three-ton hippopotamus, who has been at the park for 14 years. "Happy" is one of the biggest of his kind in captivity.

Not that the zoo-going populace endorses the judgment of the trainers. They'd rather stand in front of the monkey cages. They like "Tommy," gnomish chimpanzee with a sense of humor and an insatiable appetite for ice cream cones.

Babies of 1936 at the zoo include one llama, one jaguar, one fallow deer, five Sika deer and a kangaroo. So far from Australia, too. Curator Daniel J. Harkins swears he looks like somebody named "Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons."

Some of the boys at the zoo are saddened by the fact that appropriations have fallen off and donations decreased since the depression set in. They've one of the finest bird houses in the world, for instance. Yet their bird collection isn't what it should be, and they know it.

Ringling Zebra Housed at Zoo

Mr. Harkins tells Girl-About-Town there are 15 bears at the zoo, two tigers, and two especially fine male lions. Many other animals, including a zebra, presented by John Ringling of the greatest-show-on-earth.

No facilities exist at Franklin Park for taking care of reptiles, so there are no reptiles. Curator Harkins breeds elk, buffalo and deer, but seldom tries raising cats in captivity . . . meaning tigers, leopards and lions.

The people of Boston like the zoo. Hundreds make a daily call. Last Sunday, 30,000 visited the cages.

Picking of Pockets On Wane in Hub

Picking pockets is on the wane and snatching women's purses may soon become a lost art, according to Sergeant Coleman Joyce of the pickpocket squad.

"Dips" prefer gentlemen, blond or brunette. Ladies' handbags hurt when they're snatched, and the ladies make an outcry. Too many men carry pocketbooks and billfolds in hip pockets, easily cut away by an expert.

Part of the improvement is due to increased vigilance on the part of Boston police. A little of it must be due to the fact that in the wild years, criminals preferred violence to strategy and cunning in getting possession of purses.

Joyce's men will cover Suffolk Downs, but not the dog track, this summer. The dog tracks have their own men. The sergeant has a Rogue's Gallery file of "dips" playing Boston that would make a really timid soul carry her bankroll under two rolls of black cotton stocking!

'AUSTEN LAKE

Suffolk Creates New Sky Society Called Paddock Club

THE ULTRA-UTMOST AMONG BOSTON horse royalty has rented the top deck of Suffolk Down's clubhouse as a social center during the coming race meeting.

Austen Lake

This is being built into a little bit o' heaven by an orchidaceous minority who wish to enjoy a maximum of leg-spread nearest the skies and to sip their nerve-tonics remote from the steerage passengers.

But lest you are misled into thinking that mere possession of the initiation fee, $125, entitles you to sit under the tinted roof-parasols and have a broken-English waiter come down the aisle bearing a nickled cooler with a golden bottleneck protruding from the shaved ice, you aren't upstairs yet. And don't imagine that the absence of character stains, like a prison record, political office or poverty, will let you get past the Paddock Club's doorman.

No, sir! If you are not addicted to fishing for cocktail cherries with your nude fingers, do not employ double negatives in your speech, root home your horses with vocal squirmings or such like gaucheries. If you have that refined something called cultural grace, the track of delicacy, the art of posture, the genteel knack and a sockful of rubles to boot, why then you might be eligible. You might!

* * *

A Third Estate Among Bettors

THE OBJECT OF THE PADDOCK CLUB is to make race-going painless for O. K. people and to spare members from profane rubbings in the betting lines where a folk with halitosis breath blow hot gusts on one's neck and frowsy parties peddle bum steers under pretext of borrowing a match. The Paddock people sit on cozy cushions aloft where the breezes blow fresh from Revere Beach and obsequious betting agents circulate, doing business on the cuff, and eliminating the sweaty nuisance of standing in the pari-mutuel queues and fondling filthy money till your feet bleed.

Thus there is created a third, and most socially-sanitary group, among New England's race public, of which the basic class are the $2 bettors whose admission money gates them the prowling privilege on the left, or most spacious, wing of the park. If Suffolk was a Southern track there would be a sub-bottom class, where the Negro element are penned in chicken wire enclosures in remote areas and allowed only rudimentary comforts. Because space at a race track is always allotted in proportion to the people's spending capacity, and the Negro has little or no fun money and is therefore classified as an undesirable among his gambling fellows.

The second group at Suffolk are the folk who have higher social yearnings and pay a larger fee to sit on unfastened chairs amid the refinements of lipstick ladies and male tailors' models. And the third is the Paddock Club, of which there is nothing higher in horse society. The Paddock Club is next to the angels.

Even the Prize Ring Has Social Set

THIS TENDENCY TOWARD SELECTIVE grouping, supposedly an importation from Europe, is dearer to the American heart than the people wish to admit. Even in that varmint of all sports, the heavyweight prize fight, appeals are made to the class consciousness by passing out to the reporters in the press rows mimeographed lists of the prominent and notorious names, entitled, "Those present." This was done at the Louis-Baer fight last September and, presumably, will be done again at the Louis-Schmeling fight next Thursday.

The celebrities who are typed on these sheets always occupied the most expensive seats down at ringside. But nobody ever bothered to inquire the names of the people back yonder in the rush sections, which were seen dimly by the light of the moon. These were just the crowd.

But even in the breasts of the crowd back yonder ambition was fermenting secretly, and each man yearned to join the celebrated people and to hear the ringside radio spokesman, while reading from his lists say, "And here in this galaxy of famous people, gathered under the shine of the ring lights, I see none other than the illustrious Boston milk deliverer, Mr. Sleepout Hagan, sitting next to Miss Eleo Sears."

It is reasonable to suspect that this would give Mr. Hagan a most pleasant agitation in that region called his vanity.

* * *

Paddock People May Have Envies, Too

IF THE SO-CALLED HUMBLE SET are eaten by their cravings, it is also doubtful that the estate of the so-called upper set is as enviable as it may seem from the ground levels of Suffolk Downs. They can get as sick as other folks, have their family busts-ups, divorces and legal suits. Because a man never rises to such altitude that he does not yearn to climb higher, and when the people are up they are impelled by the same thwarted feelings and envy that once fretted them when they were back prowling the cheaper sections. Somewhere higher is always up and that is where they wish to be.

I doubt that even Walter O'Hara, who sponsors a one-man social set all to himself in his pent house at Narragansett Park, considers himself actually high enough as a celebrity to suit his taste, which is one of the most ambitious tastes known to man.

He has reared himself high in a self-created social bracket, where he is practically alone. Yet even he, exalted as he is, bombarded the Boston press until recently with wistful, self-laudatory brochures, like the one entitled "The Penalty of Leadership," which was a typographical sob about his being snowballed purely because he had achieved his place through industry, idealism and brilliance.

One gathered the impression that for all his success and material wealth, Walter's innards were consumed by a big, envious ache, which possibly was the penalty he cited. And it may be, though I wouldn't know, that one could count many similar, envious aches among the members of the Paddock Club when they convene Saturday for their first warm-up —sint over Suffolk's paradisical pastures. I say I wouldn't

BROWNS Here for 4 GAMES

KNOTT DEAL SEEMS OFF

By JOE CASHMAN

Knott is not for the Red Sox.

At least that is the way Manager Joe Cronin feels about it.

Knott, first name Jack, is a promising righthander on the St. Louis Browns who come to town today to close the second western invasion at the Fens in a four-game series.

Since the Sox are known to have made a bid for Knott and have been so successful in getting what they have gone after in the past the average fan has had an idea that the Browns would change uniforms in this series, the last in which the natives will engage before the ban falls on big league trading after Monday.

But Cronin revealed this morning that he has practically abandoned hope of taking the pitcher away from Trader Hornsby.

He even intimated that he probably wouldn't try to resume dickering unless Hornsby started it.

"The price demanded by Hornsby," said Cronin, "is all out of proportion to what Knott is worth. He is putting an ace's price on a pitcher who is only a fair performer.

"We are willing to spend a few more thousand than we think we should for Knott but the price asked is out of the question."

Cronin Hope Wanes

Cronin went on to say that he had little hope of getting a pitcher from any big league rival in the next four days.

"The clubs with star pitchers," he said, "couldn't afford to sell them at any price and second division clubs, willing to sell average performers like Knott, want two dimes for a nickel.

"It looks like our best bet would be to go after some smart veteran minor leaguer. We have four expert starting pitchers which leaves us as well off as most rivals in that respect. What we really need is a good relief man.

"If I could get some fellow who has been in the majors, can get the ball over the plate for two or three innings and is cool and resourceful in the pinches, I think we will be all set."

Cronin is a little more optimistic than he has been for some time because of Marcum's fine performance Tuesday and Ferrell's 4 to 3 win over the Tigers yesterday after only two days' rest between the wins and his enforced retirement from Sunday's game.

Jim Henry is slated to get the mound assignment against the Browns today. The club lost two straight during its last visit here, but that was before Moose Sailers really got under way.

Another added attraction in the Brown lineup will be Manager Hornsby, who injected himself into the game when Jim Bottomley was hurt the other day.

Max Reveals Hitler Interest in Bout

By JACK CONWAY

Napanoch, N. Y., June 11—Max Schmeling may not defeat Joe Louis when they clash in their 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium a week from tomorrow, but he certainly is not afraid of the "Brown Bomber" as was the case with Max Baer.

I talked with Schmeling for an hour at his cottage retreat in the mountains here, and he impressed me as being confident of his ability to win from Louis.

"I shall try to knock Louis out," Schmeling told me, "and if I fail to do so I think I shall be able to score enough points to give me a victory."

I asked Schmeling if he were afraid of Louis.

"If I were going to the electric chair I would be afraid," answered Schmeling. "I wouldn't have a chance. Fighting Louis is different. Like myself he only has two fists. He will find I can use my fists as well as he can his."

"The public gets very excited as the time for a championship bout draws near. To me it is just another fight in which I shall do my best. Fighting is my business, and when I know I am right physically I do not have any worries."

I asked Max the condition of his hands.

Max placed his fighting dukes on my knees.

"I have never hurt them," he told me simply.

I examined Schmeling's hands and found them large and powerful. They are almost as big as Dempsey's hands.

"I punch best with my right hand," went on Schmeling. "If I hit Louis, I shall hurt him."

Hitler Interested

"In his bouts with Carnera, Baer and Paulino, Louis was able to set his own pace and do as he wished. Such will not be the case when he meets me. I shall make him do things he doesn't wish to do, while I shall hit him. Maybe Louis won't look so good when under severe fire himself.

"Louis does not knock his opponents over with a single punch. He hit Baer 30 times before the bout was stopped. Even then Max had not been knocked out.

"When I fought Jack Sharkey for the first time I was subjected to terrific punishment for three rounds. Sharkey hit me with left and right hand blows almost at will. I was still inexperienced as a fighter, while Sharkey was at his peak. I was not knocked down by one of Sharkey's punches.

"If I could take such a hammering from Sharkey I don't believe I have as much to worry about Louis' punching as most people seem to think."

"I am doing road work for the first time in my boxing career," said Schmeling. "I think it will help my legs. I used to play golf while training but I have passed up the golf for road work. I have run 500 miles since I went into training here."

I asked Max what he did to pass away the time here.

"In the morning after my road work," he replied, "I have breakfast and amuse myself shooting at clay pigeons. Later I may play what which is a card game that is popular in Germany."

Schmeling told me he has a home in Berlin and a hunting lodge fifty miles from the German capital where he spends most of his time at the Schmeling country place.

"Hitler is anxious for me to win from Louis," Schmeling said. "When I defeated Steve Hamas, my wife started to listen to the bout on the radio, then got worried and shut off the radio. Later the telephone rang, and she answered it. Hitler was on the wire and he told my wife how I had won.

"Hitler knows about the various heavyweight boxers, and would like to see me win the championship."

In the event Schmeling wins over Louis, he wants to battle Jimmy Braddock for the title.

Braddock Says Max Can Win

By JAMES J. BRADDOCK
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.)

New York, June 10—It's not who hits hardest but who hits more accurately and with the right snap behind the punch that will decide the Louis-Schmeling fight at the Yankee Stadium June 18.

Timing and aiming your punches accurately requires perfect co-ordination of muscles, and no fighter, no matter how hard he can hit with either hand, is any good until he can develop that co-ordination.

Louis' ability to time and aim his punches accurately with all the snap required behind them has been the biggest and most amazing factor in his sensational rise and here, too, he has a big edge on Max.

Of course, Max hasn't fought in quite some time now, and that may hinder him. It takes lots of competitive practice to get the fighting muscles working coherently and in harmony.

While watching Max train with his sparmates I noticed he was still far off in his blows. He may hit harder or just as hard as he ever did, and Max can hit, but he seems to be slightly off his targets and that's bad. He still has about a week to get in tune and I'm sure that when he does get the snap and accuracy in his punches the Bomber will know he's been hit.

Timing Poor

The Bomber, I've been told, has been off his timing in training, and has been listless in his punching. A listless punch, of course, is one without snap to it, and you can't even push a set-up over with a punch like that. But I'm going down to see Louis soon and see for myself whether those punches are just listless or whether he's holding them back. He might hurt his hand hitting too hard, and that wouldn't be so hot with the fight not far off.

When first they signed Max and Joe for that fight the majority of experts practically conceded a set-up for Louis in a couple of rounds or so. They couldn't see how a fighter over 30 and supposed to be past his peak, even though he was a former champion and had a lot of experience, could go into the ring with the Bomber and last very long.

Schmeling's experience, I think, will not only keep him in the ring much longer that a lot of the experts think, but will also give him a chance of staying the distance and even winning. If Max gets past the fifth round he'll be pretty tough to beat. Max has always been a slow starter.

And then, you might remember that I was a 15 to 1 shot against Baer. I won, didn't I?

It's the same way with Max now. I'm not saying he'll win, but he has learned a lot in his years of fighting and although Louis, at 22, seems to have the experience of an old-timer, Max might be able to keep away from the Bomber's heavy punches like I circled around Baer's looping right.

(Champion Jimmy Braddock discusses the defensive assets and liabilities of Louis and Schmeling in his next article.)

Bout Postponed

San Francisco, June 11 (INS)—Illness of Andre Lenglet, French heavyweight champion, today caused the postponement of the Lenglet-Ray Impellitiere bout until July 10.

The ten-round battle originally was scheduled to be held here tomorrow night.

Mr. Boston

Taking Look at Der Max

By Jack Conway

NAPANOCH, N. Y. June 11—I am living at the Napanoch Country Club where Max Schmeling is training for his 15-round bout with Joe Louis which was to be held next Thursday night in New York. The place is patronized chiefly by Jews who have displayed much interest in Der Max' training.

Schmeling tells newspapers of his freedom in Hitler and says he is not worried by his bout with Joe Louis. Max and Manager Joe Jacobs have been in Pittsburgh at the Twentieth Century Club.

"I wanted Max to train at Speculator Lake," Joe Jacobs told me, "but he preferred the Napanoch Country Club here in the foothills of the Catskills.

Joe and myself are visited the open air camp where Schmeling does his training.

The ring is placed in the center of the ground by benches that can seat about 400 persons. There is cars to accord the crowd to the place. It is the main ridden, outdoor training that I have ever seen.

Joe Jacobs is the grandnephew of the prize fighter in the Columbia Club which is the last word in boxing clubs. Joe Jacobs, the man who is training Schmeling, is a native of Massachusetts. He during the first time in the city of Pittsburgh that he Carry-Plaza, and even more so than a Fox had quite a day as it was. He singled and scored in the first frame, singled again in the third and lifted a home run over the left field wall in the fifth. His drive to the cushion ended the Tigers' seventh with Phillips, who had doubled to rescue the Tigers' third and final tally, galloping to the plate.

Goslin fell sound asleep on the base paths in the first frame. On first with two gone, he started to race back to the bag when Rudy Hoyer lined to Cronin at short. The drive was on foul ground, but he had no reason leaving the scene of second.

It appeared, too, though the "Goose" had gone asleep again when he went to bat in the sixth and watched Ferrell throw three slow-motion strikes by him without once taking the bat from his shoulder.

Jimmy Foxx missed his 15th homer by less than a foot when he cracked a single off the left field wall for the Sox first bat in the second inning. The ball whizzed out there so quickly that Double X didn't have a chance to advance beyond first.

The Grove-Ferrell team has now accounted for more than half the Sox total of victories, 37 of the 23 to be exact.

The Sox will play an exhibition game with their Syracuse farmers on their way to Chicago next Monday.

MUST REMAIN WITH CLUB

New York, June 11 (AP)—Van Mungo, ace right-handed pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today was suspended without pay and fined $200 for quitting the club in Pittsburgh yesterday.

"The suspension shall continue until such time as he returns to the club," announced Judge Stephen McKeever, 51-year-old president of the club.

"I want to emphatically state that Mungo will not be traded or sold under any circumstances," he added.

Earlier in the day Mungo who left the Dodgers and went straight to his home in Florida, defiantly stated he would [illegible] Dodgers again, "unless they [illegible] me right."

"I asked Stengel Tuesday night to trade me. I said to him 'Trade me and benefit your ball club.' He could get enough for me to really get himself some good players. If he says that I didn't want to be traded, then he is a liar. That goes, too."

ANN MARSTERS' BEST BETS FOR TODAY

Hollywood, Cal., June 11—Bad luck halted my fine winning streak yesterday and handed the bankroll a temporary setback with both my choices losing out in the betting.

RELIANT won at Agawam but unfortunately was disqualified, and CARP, at Rockingham, which looked like a "good thing," was never in the running. With yesterday's loss the bankroll stands at $472.90 as we enter the sixty-first day of our experiment.

ANN MARSTERS' BETS

$2 Win, $2 Place, Salut d'Amour, Agawam, 7th

$2 Win, $2 Place, Knight Warrior, Rockingham, 5th

BANKROLL IS NOW $472.90. DAY'S PLAY $8

Today I'm planning to bet on SALUT D'AMOUR to win the seventh at Agawam and the bet is $2 win, $2 place.

Today's late special is KNIGHT WARRIOR in the fifth race at Rockingham and it's $2 win, $2 place on this one, too.

(At the suggestion of Walter O'Hara, Miss Marsters has set out to determine that conservative bets can result in satisfactory profits, or at worst small losses. Walter O'Hara, Narragansett Pak owner, presided the capital with a $1000 gift. Half was turned over the the Boston Evening American Christmas Fund immediately. The remainder will be similarly handled at the end of the experiment. This is the sixty-first day.)

COLLYER'S SPORT OF KINGS COMMENT

Scottish Mary Heavily Backed | Hill Entry At Rock'

By BERT E. COLLYER

(Copyright, 1936, by Collyer News Bureau)

SCOTTISH MARY: The Greentree representative never started but once and it was my opinion her race was even better than cold dope might indicate. At all events, the boy did not punish her; incidentally I KNOW some real "smart" people have a wager riding today. Sometimes it does not require a brick house to fall on one.

Third race at Aqueduct, which is for three-year-old maiden fillies. So hop aboard.

Pompeus, which will have the benefit of Renick's riding today, was an overnight commission horse—out of Philadelphia. True, Distracting will rule the choice but don't blame me if the Beacock hoss gallops down in front—by open daylight. Quel Jeu, which has been freshened sm is taking to beat the consistent Jeeting

The old mare needs a let-up—she has bad underpinning

Down at Rockingham Park the Hill entry in the fourth looks like taking candy from the infant. Of course Deliberate is the chief reliance; hence protect yourself. Jinx, from a real smart stable, was whispered about overnight and they may put him over. I suggest you rab the ring action—closely. Mor anon

DELIBERATE BEST BET AT 'ROCK'

BROPHY Choice in FIRST

By DAVE WILSON

BEST BET—DELIBERATE
4TH RACE.

Rockingham Park, June 11—Miss Ethel Hill's Deliberate, a fast-stepping Bubbling Over gelding, shapes up not only as the probable winner of the featured William "Horses" Ryan Purse, fourth number, but as the one solid wagering proposition here today.

FIRST RACE

Brophy Lee Gold, Prince Danny

BROPHY, away since last year, needs only to race back to brilliant trials in order to score. Contention, if any, should be furnished by another first-time starter. LIT GOLD, PRINCE DANNY is the solid horse on recent form.

SECOND RACE

Epiheau, Little Dinah, Sobriety

EPIHEAU, under a feathery 104 post of 104 pounds, figures to get from flag-fall to finish. LITTLE DINAH, third in Red Wagon strictly the main danger. SOBRIETY is descending the scale.

THIRD RACE

Jinx, Little Pauls, Hurtle Stringing along with JINX in this wide-open affair. LITTLE PAULA was up against it last trip. Figures real dangerous on a previous win. HURTLE is reported to have worked well

FOURTH RACE

Deliberate, Candy Prince, Enthusiasm

DELIBERATE, second to Speed to Spare, needs only to duplicate that most recent effort to insure bracket. CANDY PRINCE dropping down from handicaps figures to offer the contest in ENTHUSIASM, beaten a whisker by Hope To Do, for the remainder.

FIFTH RACE

Knights Warrior, Fra Diavolo, Bobs Boys

KNIGHTS WARRIOR flashed excellent form in placing to Gallant Guy only a few days back. FRA DIAVOLO has moved up the class. She was the real [illegible] a winner over $3000 platers last trip. BOBS BOYS has been knocking on the door in recent endeavors.

SIXTH RACE

Trujillo, Mountain Elk, Ramus

TRUJILLO drops off right to left from last Saturday's race victory and I just cannot see anything nearer than the Jones colors getting the honors in this affair. MOUNTAIN ELK, the main danger, triumphed impressively over cheaper company on the same card.

SEVENTH RACE

Bye Bye Mary, Joda, Blessed Event

BYE BYE MARY has shown well enough in recent endeavors to be accorded the preference in this wide-open affair. JODA is descending the scale. BLESSED EVENT was dead-heated with the top one in his most recent endeavor.

EIGHTH RACE

Flag O'War, Black Hat, Flaxen

FLAG O'WAR, if up to a race should never be out of a pull in drubbing that may [illegible]. BLACK HAT'S last race was much too poor to be true, FLAXEN came up the hottest sort of a paddock tip last time.

CHEAP BEEF RULING DOG AT WONDERLAND

Easter John Named In Eighth Race

By SAM COHEN

Cheap Beef, outclassed in higher stakes, drops back into his own class tonight and should have little trouble romping home a winner in the second race at Wonderland Park, Revere, tonight. He is the night's best bet.

The eighth race feature is a wide open race, with Easter John getting the call on his last race. Turf Traffic Police Court or Brown Sugar can upset.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

CYCLONE RIVER—PENNSUAKEN—FOSTER

PP	Dog	Owner	Wt	P.O.	Comment
4	Cyclone River	Freda Bonetti	53	2-1	Last line good
2	Pennsuaken	D R Sargeant	56	4-1	Dropping down
1	Foster	Sid Mercer	60	3-1	Trimmed before own once
5	Armed Defeat	Mrs Dr Geer	65	7-1	Must improve
3	Irish Greed	R R Farrell	59	8-1	Can take it all
7	Neva Andrews	C R Pendatter	55	10-1	From fourth race
6	Mr. Henry	T R Holmes	60	10-1	Green, needs racing
8	Rose Charm	R R Cox	56	15-1	Threw one last

CYCLONE may be used last trop and should hold off PENNSUAKEN and FOSTER both recent winners. Need of others needs racing. AVOID DEFEAT may surprise BILLIE CHARM received interference saturday.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

CHEAP BEEF GOLDEN TRUMPET—BUCK WHIRLWIND

6	Cheap Beef	P Doyle	66	8-1	Fault Not
1	Golden Trumpet	H McAheame	65	4-1	Rough trip last
7	Buck Whirlwind	Fred Phillips	68	5-1	Tuesday race and true
3	Lady Caprice	W Hicks	55	7-1	May rank higher
5	Red Peregrine	William Baker	59	8-1	Dropping in class
4	Snowy Hugh	Sarah B Allan	66	9-1	Threw out last
8	Rocky Coast	William Jenders	68	10-1	Much early foot
2	Shadow Brook	D R Maggard	65	15-1	Outran Monday

CHEAP BEEF back in cheaper company after an unsuccessful fling in the sixth race. Appears to romp by several lengths against GOLDEN TRUMPET and BUCK WHIRLWIND. Earner ran well enough to win in former. Nonetly had forced wide. BUCK WHIRLWIND should better last. Others only slight factors unless great improvement.

THIRD RACE—3-16 MILE

SUSY JEE MOBY SKEETS—BETTY JOTA

2	Susy Jee	H E Anderson	51	8-2	Best of fair lot
1	Moby Skeets	J D Hall	63	3-1	Can better last effort
8	Betty Jota	Chester Hodgers	57	4-1	Rallied cheaper once
3	Another Buckeye	Paul Mulligan	61	8-1	Rain wide on Monday
4	Emerald Lucy	J Mercantini	66	10-1	Outruns last time
5	Marquise Kris	I W Randall	6	8-1	Green, no hope
7	Hobbled Heather	Mrs Wm Jones	55	5-1	Interference last
6	Pal Bishop	Tom Mara	58	8-1	Dropping in class

SUSY JEE made up ground last out and should improve enough to hold off this boy of fairly strong contests. MOBY SKEETS has run against better company and on that edge up to take it all. Others have to figure off previous races which show erratic form.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

CONNIE MACK—SHY ANN—OFFICER LIGHTNING

3	Connie Mack	J F Thompson	67	4-1	Best effort needed
4	Shy Ann	William Rosen	51	3-1	Last not true
2	Officer Lightning	Dan Driscoll	61	6-1	Lack to better company
1	Hot Roll	J A Austin	73	5-1	Dropped from ninth
6	Kenmore	Jess Buchanan	58	8-1	Should surprise
5	Miss Treasure	D R Maggard	66	8-1	May rank higher
8	Last Shot	Leonard Richards	61	10-1	Slow enough
7	Art Desperate	Arch De Geer	67	15-1	Good schooling form

CONNIE MACK, three-year-old outranks mister Tom Tommy Thompson's here. I has which edge over other narrowers gathered from all classes for this race. SHY ANN held off cheaper company in OFFICER LIGHTNING. KEMP, should improve while HOT ROLL may have need a last.

FIFTH RACE—3-16 MILE

SALTY SEA - TWINKLE'S LADDIE - MERRY BELLE

4	Salty Sea	John Keenan	73	7-2	Should beat these
7	Twinkle's Laddie	W Washington	68	3-1	Dropping, cheaper on
8	Merry Belle	M E Mahoney	53	8-1	Well at getaway, can
1	Bay Jessie	R R Farrell	68	5-1	Worth a look last
5	Andromeda	Dicky	57	7-1	Mind run faster
6	Pepper Mark	R I Riddle	66	8-1	Raised in class
3	My Wish	M Jones	61	10-1	From good kennel
2	Miss Just B	N G Allen	65	15-1	Is no needs racing

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

WANDERING SAIL—PYRAMID—GLENFIELD

5	Wandering Sail	D Hall	66	3-1	Speed in Class Act
4	Pyramid	Fabil Kennels	63	5-1	Won last time
3	Glenfield	D Callaghan	63	7-1	Should be in shape
7	Fulton a Choice	Tom Mara	67	3-1	May be good thing
6	Speedy Lad	Jess Buchanan	65	7-1	Needs race
2	Fleetwood	J D Hall	70	8-1	Three ran in features
8	Proper Bob	Edward Revere	61	10-1	Lacks class
1	Just A Lad	N G Allen	66	12-1	Should finishes

WANDERING SAIL, more seasoned on two heights to ALREADY HAD, deserves top billing with PYRAMID and GLENFIELD the contention. Others not out of it. Race hard to figure.

SEVENTH RACE—3-16 MILE

RED ROLL—RECKLESS TOM—DUMMY

3	Red Roll	J A Austin	72	1-1	Dropped for this
5	Reckless Tom	Mrs Fanny Peck	73	7-1	Can better last
	Dummy	D Leahy	6	3-1	May rate higher
4	Ada	Mrs Dorothy	63	8-1	Needs race
2	Linco	I W Randall	63	8-1	Real cheaper ones
8	Lady Alexander	Arch De Geer	65	10-1	Needs race
6	Malesh	William Baker	65	10-1	Drop from ten
7	Tarzan Boy	Nat Ray Edwards	63	15-1	Not up Tuesday

RED ROLL has shown little to date but dropped back to cheaper company in order to find form. Similar THUMB has also disappointed in previous starts, but might wake up to take it all. DUMMY, SKY with factors on last race.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

EASTER JOHN—TURF TRAFFIC—POLICE COURT

7	Easter John	Rod Sunday	66	7-1	The one to beat
2	Turf Traffic	Art Wilson	65	3-1	In shape last two
4	Police Court	Dan Driscoll	64	5-1	Hard luck last race
1	Ben a Mint	Art Mercer	61	3-1	Can't seem to find
3	Brown Sugar	Fabil Kennel	63	8-1	Tuesday chance Saturday
5	Lou Little	Fabil Kennel	63	7-1	Triple chance Saturday
8	Big Office	Mrs Wm Jones	61	10-1	Needs more
6	My Ted	F W Jones	67	15-1	Very little Monday

EASTER JOHN trimmed Friday night and should be unhooked for interference during race. TURF TRAFFIC, off last two excellent efforts, rates second best with POLICE COURT, pressed last two contenders, to show. BROWN SUGAR, well placed, may stick it out. TOUCHDOWN likely to be a factor. Others out of it.

NINTH RACE—FUTURITY

COUNTRY DOCTOR—EMPIRE STATE—ECHO BACK

6	Country Doctor	H Callahan	65	5-1	Ought to trim these
3	Empire State	Mrs J Saling	61	9-2	Showed flashes last
5	Echo Back	D Leahy	66	7-1	Can be good at behaves
1	Tennis Officer	Fox-ell Kennel	65	7-1	Officer drops speedy
4	Sonny Mac	John Wise	58	8-1	Needs second spurt
8	Wild M	R F Randall	61	8-1	Ready to go
2	Helen Bernie	Mrs Wm Jones	58	8-1	Speed but in class
7	Traffic Barrel	Art Wilson	57	9-1	Closed any last

SIXTH RACE—3-16 MILE

ROCK ROLL—KATHERINE DARLING—ROUGHNECK PETE

3	Rock Roll	J A Austin	78	4-1	Won last by neck
1	Katherine Darling	J M Jones	73	3-1	Last not true
2	Roughneck Pete	John Ewark	71	8-1	Like a trot
5	Lord Lister	H McAheame	60	8-1	Real threat here
8	Genial Officer	Art Wilson	66	8-1	Occasional good race
7	Pepper Andrew	N G Allen	67	10-1	Moving up in class
6	Englewood	I W Randall	61	10-1	Was rank Friday
4	Clara Andrew	Dennis Allen	65	8-1	Won last fortnight

Cochrane Lost to Tigers For Season

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Mickey Cochrane, star catcher of the Detroit Tigers, faces an operation Monday and will be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Cochrane entered Henry Ford Hospital here Wednesday for treatment of a knee injury, suffered when he was hit by a pitched ball. Physicians said he will have no trouble as regards as was expected and a brief lay-off would put him into shape.

Cochrane, who has been out of the game since May 25, has been batting .320 for the Tigers.

The veteran receiver, who is in his 13th season in the National League, is the only player to have managed two pennant winners in the American League since 1931.

Ho, Hum—New Rassle Star | Sarandos Seen As Danno Heir

By Dave Egan

Some of you, no doubt, have been left holding the bag in your day and era, and your envoy, in addition, has been left holding the notes, which qualifies him as a financial expert and makes him a logical contender for the post of financial editor.

Though other stock market stooges are howling, "watch ra's" and "keep an eye on public utilities" and "Don't overlook Angles in the Grand at Wonderland" my advice to you is to be bitter-conscious and season-wise, for the scarcity heaters and spoons is due to take a three men jag within the next year.

In this advice I am guided by that Titan of finance and lesson of tin-ears Fred Mercin, the racer who has found him a fawning Greek pachyderm.

This packy-dumb will make goo out of any other packy-dumb in the world in another year. They will need spoons to scoop them up with, and blotters for sopping purposes. Oh, yes and mebbe some mops. I must remind myself to buy some Mops Ltd., with handles.

The lesson in diplomacy is implied Jimmy Sarandos said it would be a good idea to file the name away in your mental cavities because, if he does not make good as a rassler, he may open a confectionary store in your neighborhood and you would be sitting pretty if you could say, "Oh, yes, Sarandos. I've heard of you. Have you heard of me, and how is my cuff?

Dave Egan

There are two peculiarities about Jee-mee Sarandos which sets him apart from his fellow men.

(1) He is not related to Jimmy Londos. This is most unusual, for every Greek I have met in the past five years has been related to Londos, and, in every case, has been a distant cousin.

(2) He has no moustaches, or face-foliage, of any kind. I spoke sharply to Mister Moran about this face deformity.

"What marches on?" he retorted, being quick on the query.

"Time," says I, quarking back quickly.

"Well, what marches on will take care of the mustache, because he's only 19 now. And furthermore, I am glad he is not a cousin of Londos, for Londos has been wrestling cousins all his life."

Now, that you are agog, anxious and prudently a-leapin' to KNOW ALL about Jimmy Sarandos, he is 19 years of age; was born in Constantinople on March 9, 1916, stands five feet, ten and one-half inches above the level of the sea; weighs 237 pounds, slips his shirt over his head until the collar pushes around a 21 period; has a chest circumference of 37 and a measure 37 around the waist.

As wobbly reels as a sailor. Sarandos dropped into this country a few years ago and he . . . all I got from him . . . On the 1st occasion he threw one of the O-Henrys at me and pretended which is par for the course. The O-Henrys are always being thrown and the time is always three minutes, for they are very consistent.

Against a lot of wrestlers in Greece named Dick and Jimmy, all of whom were defeated champions of London, Sarandos won 153 consecutive matches, and Mister Moran says that he is a shoo-in for the championship of the world when he grows up to 275 or 300 pounds.

Overture to Danno-Yvon Serial

The young Greek growler and grunter will be officially unveiled in the semi-final match of the O'Mahoney-Robert classic. Then, I forestand, will be the third thrilling episode of the rough-n-gnashing drama, and it promises to wind up the business in a satisfactory manner, for they will rassle to a finish.

Mister Moran took the bandages off his wallet, which he explained had suffered a severe strain of late, and extracted therefrom a photograph of the young man and also a deceased moth.

"I know all about moths and rasslers," he said modestly. "When I tell you that this is a deceased moth, you will know that I am speaking with authority, for I am the author of the standard volume on moths, 'WHAT EVERY YOUNG MOTHER SHOULD KNOW.'

"And when I tell you that this is a picture of the greatest rassler since Frank Gotch, you will know that I am also speaking with authority, for I did not win these cauliflower ears in a claiming race, nay yet in a grab-bag."

Dan Koloff who is now in Paris was much for the ability of the youngster. Koloff was variously known as the Bulgarian Lion and the Iron Bulgar in which he was in this country, and he was also known as one of the toughest of the Bowery boys.

When Mister Sarandos announced his intention of coming to this country, he was advised to visit Paris where the Livin' Bulgarian would give him the low-down on the wrong crate him and send him back to Greece, pronto.

"We didn't want any more rasslers in this country at the time, so when President Roosevelt started paying off farmers for not rassling, he was next logical move would have been to pay Bowser for not rassling any more rasslers.

"But the unswing Greek rang Koloff a neck, and tweaked his nose, and stomped on his footsies and took the next boat for America.

"I am very happy to be in this land of hopportunity," he said to me in his native Greek. "I will plow under any rassler that your President, Theodore Roosevelt, wishes to have plowed under. I am very happy."

The Nineteen Scars

Providence Lad's Story of Dark Night and Unseen Terror

By FLOYD GIBBONS

FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Meet JOE ETCHELLS of 112 Huntington avenue, Providence, R. I. Joe says he has no memory for dates, as a rule. He couldn't tell you when Columbus discovered America, except that it was sometime before the Revolutionary War—and he couldn't tell you when the Revolutionary War was fought, except that it was before his time, too.

But there is one date Joe will NEVER forget. That date is June 15, 1930. The war that was fought on that day is the most important date in history as far as Joe is concerned. Those other wars were all fought a long time ago, or a long ways away. But this one happened to him—in person—and he's got nineteen long zigzag scars on his back to prove it.

And here's how Joe got those scars.

Joe was camping up in the White Mountains in New Hampshire. They were spending a vacation in a cabin three miles outside of the town of Woodstock. It was a lonesome place, but the hunting and fishing was good—and, after all, that's what they were up there for.

The only trouble came when they ran out of something. Like tobacco, for instance. When a man runs out of tobacco he seems to want to smoke twice as bad, and twice as often as he would if he had the makin's.

That's what happened on the night of June 15. Joe and Jim ran out of tobacco. Joe said he'd walk down to town and get some, but Jim objected, saying it was dangerous to walk three miles through the woods at night, because there were a lot of bears and wildcats around that year.

Well, Joe wanted a smoke, bears and wildcats or no bears and wildcats. The two lads had an argument that ended up with Jim saying: "All right, go ahead. But don't say I didn't warn you!" And with that, Joe started out from the cabin.

It was about eight o'clock, and the night was dark. Joe hit up a swift gait and headed for Woodstock. He covered half a mile along the open road and then came to a narrow strip of land covered by a thick growth of trees. Joe got about half way across that wooded belt when SUDDENLY HE HEARD A STRANGE, BLOOD-CURDLING SOUND.

Joe was carrying a rifle, but just the same, that sound scared him. It was an eerie cry, half-way between a whimper and a hiss—the cry of a wildcat—and it came from somewhere over his head.

Joe looked up at the curtain of leaves above him, but in the darkness, there was nothing to see.

"I started to walk faster," he says, "but when I had gone only a few paces the cry came again from a nearby tree."

Joe's knees began to shake then, and he clutched his gun with a firmer grip. "I had a weird feeling that something was going to happen," he says.

"Something that I was powerless to prevent. The rifle in my hand was absolutely useless, for I could see nothing to shoot at.

"I backed away from the tree from which the sound had seemed to come and stood still for a few tense seconds, hoping against hope that this unseen thing would make its appearance and get it over with.

"I pointed my gun at the tree top and strained my eyes. Lord, how I strained them! But it was no use. I couldn't see a thing. The night was too black."

Then, of a sudden, Joe had a horrible, uncanny sensation. In pitch blackness, in the midst of a dead silence, he felt a blow on his back, and pain shot through his shoulder as something that seemed like a hundred burning needles sank repeatedly into his flesh. The wildcat had leaped—leaped without a sound—without a cry. It had sunk its terrible lacerating claws into Joe's back—getting ready to make a kill.

"I turned," says Joe. "I shook and twisted. But if you think you can shake a wildcat off your back, try it yourself sometime.

"The thing stuck to my shoulder as if it had lived there all its life. There was only one other defense I could think of at the moment, and I tried that.

"I twirled my gun around and brought it down butt first across my shoulder, hoping to hit the cat. I hit him all right, and though I couldn't see, I think I caught him on the head. But in doing so, I left myself wide open.

"The cat was dazed but it made one last pass at my windpipe and only missed it by a hair."

One last pass at Joe's windpipe, and then the cat slumped to the ground. One of his claws, sunk deep into Joe's hide, cut a gash seven inches long in Joe's flesh as it fell, and Joe screamed aloud with pain.

By that time, Joe was hysterical from fright and rage. His back was covered with blood, and he had to fight to keep from losing consciousness. He pulled himself together long enough to put a bullet into the dazed animal's head. Then he fainted.

Joe was in the hospital for three months, but he'd have been a dead man today if Jim hadn't heard his shot and come out looking for him. The doctors gave Joe up right at the start—claimed he'd die from loss of blood and blood-poisoning. "But I didn't," says Joe, "because here I am telling about how I got those nineteen scars!"

All kinds of people are sending me their adventure yarns, and I'm glad to see that, because I've always said that all kinds of people have adventures and it makes me feel good to know I was right.

Now, there's just one more person I want to hear from, and that's YOU. Send that story.

Tomorrow I've another great adventure yarn for you. Don't miss it!

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

WESTON Junior Leaguer Weds in Church

By BETTY ALDEN

WEDDINGS ARE certainly society's theme song this week . . . so, necessarily, most of our stories have the same plot . . . Though the different settings, changing cast of characters and new costumes give us a good deal of variety . . .

This afternoon two very prominent girls are assuming the responsibilities of matrimony and both have chosen small garden weddings with only a few intimate friends and their closest relatives present . . .

MRS. ALBERT THORNDIKE

At Greenways, the country estate of Mr and Mrs. Frank C. Paine on Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, their daughter Jeanne becomes the bride of Albert Thorndike of Beacon street, son of Dr and Mrs. Albert Thorndike . . .

Rev. F. C. Powell, S. S. J. E., reads the marriage service and Mr. Paine gives the daughter away . . . Ellen Osgood, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Osgood of Mt Vernon street, is the maid of honor and the other attendants are the Misses Barbara Edwards of Syracuse, N. Y., Tasha Tudor of Putney, Emily Sweetser of New York and Anne Fisher of Weston with whom the bride made her debut two years ago . . .

The bride is wearing the traditional ivory satin with an old lace veil and bouquet of lilies of the valley . . . Her maid of honor is wearing a frock of delphinium blue organdie while the bridesmaids wear gowns of pastel colors with contrasting sashes and large picture hats . . . Two little flower girls, Frances Paine, the Misses Margaret Winsor I ave miniature bridesmaid frocks of pink organdie with hoop skirts . . .

Roger W. Drury of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., is the best man and the ushers consist of the Messrs. Gerardus Beekman, Harrison Wood and Oliver H. Straus, all of New York, and Benjamin A. G. Thorndike of Dedham . . .

The reception follows after the ceremony in the garden and assisting the bridal couple in receiving are Mrs. Paine, gowned in blue and white printed organdie with a matching hat . . .

Following their wedding trip, Mr. Thorndike and his bride will be at home on Hinckley road, Milton . . . The bride, a Winsor School graduate, is a member of the Junior League . . . She is a granddaughter of General Charles J. Paine who owned the famous cup defenders Puritan, Mayflower and Volunteer . . . On the maternal side she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Alfred M. Low of Detroit, and she is also related to Mrs. Thatcher Kimball of Milton, Mrs. Richard T. Fisher of Weston, Mrs. Frederick Winsor of Concord, John Paine of Weston and Emerson Low of New York . . .

The bridegroom is graduating from Harvard next week . . . He is a brother of Mrs. Dorothy Thorndike Warren, Rosana Duncan Thorndike and Mary Quincy Thorndike of Beacon street, Samuel L. Thorndike of Cambridge and Benjamin A. G. Thorndike of Dedham . . . His father, the late Albert Thorndike, was secretary and treasurer of the Boston Athenaeum and the Perkins Institute for the Blind . . .

Goodhue-Forbes Bridal in Milton

THE OTHER WEDDING takes place in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Forbes of Milton, when their daughter, Katharine, becomes the bride of Nathaniel M. Goodhue of Salem, Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy, who has tied the knot in so many fashionable Milton weddings is officiating and Dr. Forbes gives his daughter away . . . She, too, is wearing ivory satin with a simple tulle veil and lilies of the valley and gardenias in her bouquet . . .

She is attended by her two sisters, Janet, a debutante of the past winter, and Florence E. Forbes . . . Their colorful frocks are of tie-dyed organdie with yellow sashes and they are carrying bouquets of yellow iris and roses . . .

Albert Goodhue, Jr., is acting his brother as best man and Robert Cutler is the head usher . . . The wedding is very small with a few more friends invited in to extend their best wishes to the bridal couple at the reception . . .

The bride made her debut in 1933 and belongs to the Junior League . . . She is the great-granddaughter of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the late [illegible] and [illegible] and of the late F. Murray Forbes . . . Among other [illegible] are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Emerson Forbes of Milton, Miss Waldo Forbes of Milton and Professor and Mrs. Kenneth G. T. Webster of Gerry's Landing, Cambridge . . .

Mr. Goodhue is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goodhue of Salem . . . He attended Milton Academy and graduated from Harvard in 1[illegible] . He belongs to Hasty Pudding, Delphic, Institute of 1770 and D. K. E. Following their honeymoon he and his bride will live in Milton . . .

LEWIS HANEY ON TREND

Honesty as Policy

EVEN IN HIGH PLACES

Called Necessary

By LEWIS HANEY

(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, June 11—Probably the strongest claim of the reorganized and more liberal Republican party centers in its stand for sound finance.

It will go before the people as standing for sound money on a gold standard, a balanced federal budget, and the abolition of federal waste.

Some people may think that these are technical matters which do not touch the human aspect of life. We are apt to think of money as being a matter of mere business. The point I would make is that "sound finance" and "sound money" are matters of common honesty and moral principle.

* * *

I believe that back of all the financial looseness and manipulation of the Roosevelt administration there lies a fundamental lack of integrity and principle. I believe further that this is sensed by a majority of the people.

They may excuse it as arising out of an "emergency." They may condone it as an "experiment." But they mistrust it and at heart dislike it.

* * *

After all, honesty is most frequently thought of in connection with business. The old saying, "Honesty is the best policy," was uttered with regard to business.

Contracts are promises. . . . Credit is a large part of business, and credit always involves promises to pay. Business is based largely upon confidence, and confidence rests largely upon integrity.

But business, and all our economic life, is carried on with the aid of money. We buy or sell most of the things we are concerned with. Even the churches and concerts are supported through money.

Most of us save. Many of us make investments. All of us need goods which can be produced only with the aid of the capital that saving and investment makes possible. But what we save and invest is money.

Thus it is that sound money is intimately connected with common honesty.

* * *

Sound money is money which represents a standard. This is just as true as it is that sound engineering or sound morals represent standards.

When a man makes a contract, he promises to pay money. When a man saves for his children or old age, he deposits or invests money. But unless the money is something definite, so that he can count upon its value being free from arbitrary manipulation, there is no standard.

The promises are meaningless if the money is uncertain and indefinite. There is no standard of performance.

It is just this uncertainty, this lack of standards, which retards saving and investment, and thus restricts industry and employment.

* * *

There is deep down a profound feeling of a lack of simple integrity at Washington.

The Roosevelt administration has stood for giving "something for nothing." (We may take it, but we don't like it.) It has stood for "creating purchasing power." (Again we take it, but we don't understand the thing, and distrust it.) It has stood for shifty experimentation. (We may be interested, but the lack of principle and standards fills us with uncertainty.)

All this is typified by the administration's debasement devaluation and manipulation of our money. We may not understand the theory of money, but we feel that money must be a definite standard for economic values—that it must not be subject to manipulation by politicians.

We cannot have honesty in economic life without standards. We cannot have standards without a definite dollar. We cannot have a definite dollar without a sound public finance, which means a balanced budget. We cannot have a balanced budget while the administration in power is wasting our money.

The Roosevelt policies have meant continued huge deficits and deficit financing. This means forced loans. Forced loans, in turn, mean a threat of repudiation of debt.

In my opinion, a government which in peace times issues billions of notes and bonds without adequate provision for redemption—and which it knows it may not be able to redeem—is a dishonest government.

A. T. & T. Investigation HALTED

RECENT SERIES CONCLUDED

By Associated Press

Washington, June 11—The Federal Communication Commission's $750,000 investigation of the huge American Telephone and Telegraph Company came to a halt today amid forecasts from informed sources that it would not be resumed until late summer.

When Congress ordered the investigation last session, the commission work was financed with $750,000.

Around $400,000 for the same purpose has been approved by both Houses, but it is included in the deficiency bill which has not yet completed its legislative course.

* * *

Much testimony on stock ownership in the A. T. & T. concluded the recent series of hearings yesterday.

Dr. N. R. Danielian, expert witness for the investigators, said leaders in the telephone industry had stressed "the large number of stockholders and their small holdings" but had failed to reveal that "five per cent of all stockholders owned 50 per cent" of the stock.

* * *

In answer to questions by Samuel Becker, chief counsel in the investigation, the witness said this had been done to "create goodwill" and aid telephone leaders in their contacts with legislative committees.

Danielian contended speeches, advertisements and other information by telephone leaders did "not give a complete picture" when they emphasized the stock held by "small investors, particularly housewives."

Danielian contended the "housewife statements were based upon statistical legerdemain."

Quotation from speeches and interviews of Walter Gifford, president of A. T. & T., also were cited to show he had stressed the company was a "public utility, publicly owned."

FCC spokesman said the present investigation was ordered to determine if federal regulation of rates and practices of the telephone industry was necessary.

MONEY IN Circulation Up

Total money in circulation increased $66,000,000 between April 30 and May 31, reaching $5,952,292,191 on the latter date, the Treasury announced.

Total money stocks reached a new high of $16,490,541,832 at the end of May. The increase was caused primarily by a $176,000,000 increase in gold stocks during May and a $6,000,000 increase in silver stocks.

Per capita circulation at the end of May was estimated at $46.55, against $46.08 at the end of April.

WALL ST. Not Earning LIVING

BUSINESS GOES TO LONDON

By B. C. FORBES

Every day this week the stock market has quietly crept upwards. This may or may not reflect the mild rise in hopefulness over political prospects in the highest circles. Resignation to defeatism is subsiding somewhat.

Events at Cleveland thus far are interpreted as encouraging. The chief characteristics of the stock market is not its current firmness, but its extraordinary dullness. Margins of 55 per cent severely restrict dealings. They are also driving much stock exchange business to the London market, where margin demands are lighter.

Wall Street lately has not been making a living. Nor will it be able to make ends meet unless transactions increase very substantially. Should more and more transactions be switched to London and should dealings here continue abnormally limited, no little unemployment would be created. Moreover, the large revenue derived from taxes on stock dealings would be seriously reduced.

A "thin" market embodies distinct dangers. Stocks could easily tumble sensationally on even light offerings were there a dearth of buyers, as happened during the early stages of the panic. What Wall Street called "air pockets" developed in many investment issues, meaning that there were alarming drops because no bids anywhere near the previous price were on hand.

Whether the Washington authorities will heed Wall Street pleas that margin requirements be modified, remains to be seen. Washington is encouraging and aiding people to buy homes on very slender margins, but has severely discouraged buying of securities on similar margins.

In fact, there are very few things costing any considerable sum which can be purchased today on nominal down payments. Automobiles, furniture, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, even clothing can be so purchased.

Wall Street cannot understand why its wares should be singled out for very different treatment. A broad, active market for shares of ownership in our great business enterprises is healthy, not unhealthy.

Every legitimate facility should be afforded for maintaining such a market.

* * *

America continues to overshadow all other countries in unemployment. Authentic figures are unavailable. But estimates range from 8,000,000 to 11,000,000 or over.

Britain has been making steady progress employmentwise. Her idle total has been reduced to approximately 1,700,000, after having long called for about 2,000,000.

Germany's latest count is 1,491,201, the lowest for any corresponding period since 1929. She now has 17,050,000 gainfully employed, contrasted with only 11,487,000 at the beginning of 1933, when unemployment exceeded 6,000,000.

France reports only 441,114 unemployed, which small total is slightly under the figure of 12 months ago, 441,661.

Surely, the time has come for those in power at Washington to awaken to the fact that their policies have not been bearing adequate fruit.

CHASE NATIONAL

COLLECTS

Claim Held Secondary To Bonds

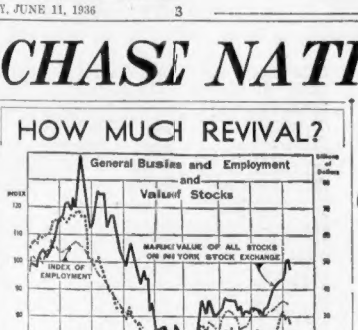
By International News Service

Washington, June 11—While bondholders of the Consolidated Textile Corporation, which went into receivership last year, received not even interest payments over the six year period after the corporation first defaulted in interest payments in 1929, the Chase National Bank was collecting $1,546,564 payments on a $3,430,000 claim.

The bank's claim was secondary to the claims of the bondholders, according to evidence produced before the Senate bankruptcy special committee, headed by Senator McAdoo (D.) of California.

The evidence was brought out only after the committee had issued subpoenas calling for books and records of the bank. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a New York investment banking house, will also produce its records.

HOW MUCH REVIVAL?



Three of the most important economic measurements are: 1, General business; 2, Employment; 3, Stock values. All three are portrayed in this chart.

How have the three measurements fared since the depression bottom. The answer: General business is up 49 per cent, employment is up 41 per cent, stock prices are up 117 per cent. General business and employment are taken from the 1933 low, stocks from their 1932 low.

Stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange at the end of A; ril had an aggregate market value of $47,774,000,000, compared with just above $15,000,000,000 at the 1932 bottom. At the end of March stock values were at the peak of the entire recovery, $51,867,000,000

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York's index is used for one general business measurement; the index of employment is that of the U. S. Bureau of Labor, and the stock values are officially reported by the Stock Exchange.

Wall Street Sidelights

New York, June 11—Sustained activity yesterday continued to mark shares of industries which are widely regarded as likely to be among the principal beneficiaries of the soldier bonus distribution next Monday.

Merchandise store stocks have been quite prominent in this category, largely on the theory that bonus money is likely to find its way into department store purchases.

The bonus payment is particularly well timed for this business, inasmuch as it is a pretty well established fact that June, July and August are normally the least profitable part of the department store year. For many companies the Summer has been a period of deficits. There are some in Wall Street, however, who question the likelihood that the bonus spending will be sufficient to offset normal summer dull business.

* * *

Seasonal Influence On Beverage Stocks

Stocks of beverage companies have moved ahead at a lively rate recently, encouraged no doubt by expectations of increased consumption arising from seasonal rise and fall of the mercury. Reports from current yesterday that one of the best known brands of soft drinks has had larger sales recently than in years. Such refreshments will have competition from hard liquors, which will be greater prominence than in the prohibition era, a viewpoint which is supported by the recent liquor retailers' price war in New York City. Whether this competition will be sufficiently severe to prove the anticipation of a seasonal increase in sales exaggerated is a question which time alone will answer.

* * *

Excess Reserves Still Live Topic

While little new has appeared in recent weeks on the question of curbing excess bank reserves, it is understood the topic is still being weighed closely in authoritative banking quarters. As a matter of fact the question is being attacked from different angles than the original proposals of sterilizing funds through sale of government securities by the Reserve Banks or raising reserve requirements. Among the suggestions informally discussed by bankers is one that would involve a combination of the two measures. Whether this finds support or enthusiasm in quarters heretofore opposed to credit control by any method and might form the basis of a compromise with them is uncertain.

Erie Freight Picking Up

Erie Railroad's freight traffic is bettering its showing, compared with a year ago. The carrier's cumulative freight loadings to date are but 4 per cent above the like 1935 period, but the May loadings rose close to 10 per cent above last year. Currently, freight volume is said to be paralleling the May levels. Gross revenues for the first four 1936 months at $26,012,000 were around $2,240,000 ahead of the like period of last year, while net operating income at $4,607,000 was $617,000 above the like 1935 period.

Fox Stock Sale By Chase Denied

Frequently recurring rumors that the Chase National Bank is studying a proposal to dispose of its holdings of Fox-Twentieth Century and apply the proceeds toward retirement of its preferred stock held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have been just as often officially denied. They are in circulation again with no more official foundation than heretofore.

Royal Dutch Puts Cash Into U. S. Bonds

The annual report of the Royal Dutch Holding Company shows an increase of about 35 per cent in its security investments during 1935, and a drop of about 90 per cent in its cash balances at the end of 1935. Its holdings of securities at the end of 1935 were valued at 82,180,643 florins, against 60,000,000 florins invested at the end of 1934. This increase of 22,180,643 florins represents at current exchange rates about $14,971,934 more the company put into securities the previous year. Its explanation of new investments is brief, but these additional holdings consist of United States Treasury bonds; dollar debentures of its own company and 4½ per cent debentures of Batafschefe Petroleum Maatschappij.

Washington Notebook

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A gain of 15 per cent in daily average sales of variety stores for May compared with the same month last year is shown in preliminary estimates of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The gain over April, in terms of dollar volume, exceeded seasonal expectations. The index, adjusted for seasonal variation, rose to 98 per cent of the 1923-31 average from 95 in April and 86 in May last year. For the first five months the aggregate value of sales was up about 3 per cent compared with the corresponding 1935 months.

* * *

Security transactions between the United States and Canada in March declined but sales to this country continued to run ahead of purchases, according to figures received by the commerce department from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Sales to the United States totaled $24,396,902 against purchases of $20,035,646. For the first quarter, Canada was credited with selling to the United States about $108,000,000 compared with purchases of $77,340,000. The totals were nearly double figures for the comparable period last year.

* * *

The bureau of fisheries places the value of canned fishery products and by-products in the United States last year at $104,480,000, of which canned products accounted for approximately $75,000,000. The value of the canned output declined 6 per cent compared with 1934, while the by-product total increased 39 per cent.

* * *

A setback from the recent record-breaking level of crude oil runs to stills for refining is recorded in the Bureau of Mines' figures for the final week of May. The daily average runs to stills was figured at 2,945,000 barrels, a drop of 30,000 from the preceding week. Crude production declined about 45,000 barrels to about 3,015,000, the bureau said, but little change in stocks was indicated.

TAXES Barrier to REVIVAL

SECURITY NEED OF INDUSTRY

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service

New York, June 11—A nonpolitical personality in Cleveland is William Feather, business philosopher and printer.

Each month he reveals the distillation of his practical wisdom in his little house organ.

Amidst the current ballyhoo of the politicians, this quiet voice is likely to be unheard, but what he says about economic recovery will eventually catch the attention of the people.

"The people of this and other nations will have to face one or two other bitter realities in the next few years," Mr. Feather points out.

"One of these is that the best way to get prosperity is to offer security and reward to business enterprise. There is no security for anyone when industry and enterprise are harassed and taxed to death.

"Wages, profits, savings and thrift are the basis of security. You can eliminate an industry or an enterprise by taxation, but you can't create a single dollar by taxation until somebody has earned the dollar by work. Money won't work for nothing, and that's why so much money now lies idle in the banks and in low-yield bonds."

In our national progress, the main barrier is the paralyzing effect of false premises.

One common notion is that machines compete with men and throw them out of work.

That is a superficial view.

Machines, which are the manifestations of science and invention, change the specifications of jobs and alter the processes of production.

Accordingly, they dislodge men from obsolete jobs, but they also set them free for new types of activities.

The overall result of the evolution is to give workers a much larger share of the total annual social income.

The Brookings studies indicated that 85 per cent of the national income goes to those in gainful occupations, and only 15 per cent to capital in the form of dividends and interest.

Machines constitute a capital cost, and these figures of income distribution demonstrate conclusively that machines add to, not lessen the income that otherwise would go to men.

As a matter of fact, in increasing the productivity per manhour of work, machines over the long pull give human workers higher real wages and greater leisure.

This idea seems to be grasped even in Soviet Russia, which has been feverishly building up its capital equipment, yet economic dictators over there are confused about this fundamental matter.

Edwin F. Dakin has raised the question as to what a profit is.

The politician speaks glibly as though we lived in a profit economy, though every business man and investor knows we operate under a profitless and loss system.

Profit is largely an accounting conception representing the excess, if any, of what a business takes in over what it pays out for the cost of goods, services, rent, etc.

But on deeper analysis it appears that so-called profits is in reality also an element of cost. It represents provision against the cost of capital.

Senior capital—in the form of bonds—gets a fixed rate of a fixed return. Junior capital — stocks, representing the equity—get only a contingent return, with the hope of it must be sufficiently substantial to compensate for the risk involved.

From this viewpoint, before net profit is figured, the prudent executive makes adequate reductions for reserves against the wearing out and the obsolescence of capital equipment.

On the other hand, the incompetent business man skimps on maintenance and depreciation reserves, and builds up trouble by exaggerating in his own mind the profit return.

* * *

In its eagerness for revenue, the taxing authorities tend to discourage adequate chargeoffs for depreciation, depletion and obsolescence.

They could stimulate the heavy industries by taking a more realistic attitude.

The business man knows that the depreciation value of machinery deteriorates the moment it becomes second hand.

Accordingly, if the tax officials would permit them immediately to write down such capital equipment by one-third, and permit them to write off the remainder in about ten equal annual instalments, there would be more willingness to invest.

Murray Ohio Corp

Murray Ohio Copper Corporation declared a dividend of 30 cents on the common, payable July 1 to stock of record June 25. This is the first dividend on the stock since October 1, 1930.

Department Store Sales Increase

Generally seasonable weather, coupled with nation-wide improvement in business, combined to send department stores sales in May in principal cities of the country 8 per cent to 35 per cent ahead of the similar 1935 period.

With the exception of Philadelphia, Detroit and Boston, which showed 8 per cent, 9 per cent and 10 per cent improvement, respectively, department store turnover was reported to be almost 20 per cent ahead of the like 1935 month. Many individual store units in principal cities of the nation state that business in May this year was the best in several years.

June began despite the holiday influence and cool weather in scattered areas, got off to a good start, reports indicate that business in the first six shopping days held near or slightly below the levels established for May.

In instances where some reductions in turnover were noted, department store leaders generally appeared to be confident that subsequent developments in the month would bring the average gain in turnover in line with May improvement.

Retail Advertising Gains Continue

Chicago, June 11—Retail advertising lineage in newspapers during the week ended May 30, 1936, was 5.9 per cent greater than that carried during the corresponding period of 1935, Advertising Age reported today.

The publication's tabulation, which is based on the display advertising placed by retailers in all the newspapers of 63 major cities, shows a total for last week of 15,795,346 lines, compared with 14,902,287 lines during the corresponding week of 1935.

For the year to date, retail lineage in reporting cities has totalled 360,879,975 lines, compared with 348,784,059 lines during the same period of 1935. This is a gain of 12,095,916 lines, or 3.5 per cent.

MAINE BANKERS' Convention

The Maine Bankers' Association convention is to be held at Poland Springs on Friday and Saturday, June 26 and 27. Dr. G. M. W. Sprague, of Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, is to be one of the principal speakers.

Robert Baldwin of the Second National Bank of Boston will likewise speak, as well as John B. Kennedy, news commentator of the National Broadcasting Company.

Central Maine Power

Augusta, Me., June 11 (AP)—Central Maine Power Company officials declared these dividends today, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 10: 87½ cents a share on 7 per cent preferred, 75 cents on the 6 per cent preferred, 75 cents on the $6 dividend series preferred.

Dividend

Incorporated Investors declared regular semi-annual dividend of 35 cents a share, payable July 30 to stock of record June 23.

N. E. BUSINESS

Improved OUTLOOK FOR Cotton

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

New England business recorded moderate progress in the past week. If any industry featured the reports it was cotton manufacture.

Sharp advances in the price of raw cotton resulted in large quantities of gray goods changing hands at slightly higher prices.

The industry has done rather well since the first of the year and Dun & Bradstreet, in their survey of New England business conditions this week, say the outlook has improved materially. A better market for finished goods and stronger raw material prices has favorably affected cotton yarns and fairly large sales have been reported as the trade position also show signs of strengthening.

* * *

In other directions New England business is showing excellent indications of stability which promise a steering course in the not too distant future. The Boston wool market has been fairly active and dealers in the Providence street sector are displaying much more confidence in the future of the market. Shoe prices have apparently stabilized and buyers are less hesitant about placing orders and some lines are moving quite freely. All that is needed is a burst of building activity. At present business is running at about one-third of the 1928-30 level. However, this is double last year's figures and while hardly satisfactory is suggestive of further improvement.

* * *

Notebook: We have hammered on the importance of the steel industry as a key to the week now . . . For the reason it is considered here as extremely important in judging stock market trends . . . And now we think we see a snag to the third quarter price increases . . . It is the drop in scrap steel prices . . . Which has reached unfavorable proportions . . . And could easily strengthen the determination of buyers of finished steel not to pay the new prices . . . For they will argue that if scrap is off there is less excuse for higher finished products.

* * *

The recent behavior of the Associated Press stock averages raises an interesting technical question regarding the position of the market. The situation is as follows: Rails and utilities have experienced recessions, lasting for 10 and 13 weeks, respectively, that could qualify as full-fledged secondary reactions. Both averages topped in February and have had two phase declines with only feeble intervening recovery. At the same time industrials put on an independent show of their own and actually kicked into new high ground during the early stage of the rail-utility decline.

* * *

When the other two averages rallied slightly industrials seized their opportunity and registered at even higher levels. Then the second stage of the rail-utility decline set in and industrials had their first real reaction. Quite frankly we overlooked the details of this diversified market behavior and now after studying it for a day or two are skeptical of a general decline carrying to new lows all around. The worst in the outlook now seems a call for a reaction of the May-June upswing followed by a sidewise move. The speculative stock trader should take against being left behind by a straight away upswing are, however, still as outlined here yesterday.

GOLD COVERAGE Forced Lower

Paris, June 11 (INS)—A decrease of 1,500,000,000 francs in the gold reserves of the Bank of France was shown today in the official statement for the week ending June 6.

Bank note circulation was increased 250,000,000 francs, thus forcing down the gold coverage from 61.01 to 59.68 per cent.

Bar Gold

London, June 11 (AP)—Bar gold advanced ⅛ penny to 138s 9d. (Sterling price equivalent to $34.80.)

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

The Keynote of AMERICANISM Has Been Sounded at Cleveland!

SENATOR STEIWER'S address, as temporary chairman of the Republican Convention, was indeed A KEYNOTE SPEECH—worthy of a great occasion and of the spirit of dedication and high resolve, which is rising throughout the country.

Its opening sentences told the story, and told it well.

"We do not meet as partisans," said the speaker, "but as patriotic Americans, solemnly determined to proceed in the American way TO RESTORE AMERICA TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE."

With this opening declaration the remainder of his speech, interesting and effective as it was, became specification and detail.

* * *

DECLARING that the purpose of the convention was not only to adopt a Republican platform and to nominate a Republican President, but to substitute AN AMERICAN DEAL for the self-styled New Deal, he invited the aid and counsel of all Americans, REGARDLESS OF PARTY.

"There are no party lines," said he, "when human liberty is at stake."

Who will doubt that our liberties are at stake, and who can be so narrow of vision as to imagine that in a struggle for the protection of those liberties, party lines have any importance?

* * *

IT was a telling stroke when the speaker declared that "POLITICAL MORALITY" must be restored in our nation; and that we are determined to have a competent government founded on CONVICTION and CONSCIENCE.

No more shall the money of the people be used for the support and enrichment of administration parasites.

NO LONGER WILL THE NATION TOLERATE THE POLITICALIZATION OF HUMAN RELIEF.

No longer can our people be fooled with hat-and-rabbit economics, nor will they tolerate the building up with taxpayers' money of a bureaucracy of bought votes and incompetence.

* * *

THE speaker justly excoriated the administration for its effort to arraign class against class; for its financial practices, which would cover with shame any group of "money-changers" which the world ever knew; for its false humanitarianism, which offers a cover for Farley's efforts to Tammanyize the country; for its reckless imposition of taxes which has crushed the people and well nigh exhausted the national credit; for the terrific burden which has been created for the youth of today, and generations unborn, who will be called upon to pay for the madness and folly of the last three years; and for closing the doors of opportunity, which have made American life the splendid thing it has always been.

The attempt of the administration to graft the alien philosophies of the war dictatorships of Europe upon our system of government and to substitute the regimentation of peasants for the self-rule of freemen, was held up to deserved reproach, as well as the Roosevelt effort to nullify the Constitution by underhanded and indirect devices.

* * *

IT was a good speech—AN AMERICAN SPEECH—the kind of speech that Americans have been waiting for.

If the convention will perform its work in harmony with the note struck by its temporary chairman, it will meet the aroused expectations of the country, and prove itself worthy of an opportunity which seldom in history comes to a political party!

France: A Warning To America!

THE CRISIS that has developed in France, whose people may soon be on the edge of starvation and whose morale in a war-threatened world is weakened by so much, carries with it a POIGNANT LESSON FOR AMERICA.

France concluded a military treaty with Russia—a country which is now the SWORN ENEMY OF EVERY CAPITALISTIC DEMOCRACY IN THE WORLD.

She immediately followed this up with an election which, mainly as the result of Russian Communistic propaganda, has brought to power a Socialistic-Communistic government, with an avowed revolutionary radical, Leon Blum, as premier-to-be.

On the eve of the installation of the new government a nation-wide strike, COMMUNISTIC IN ORIGIN AND IN INTENT, is declared, paralyzing many industries and bringing before the eyes of the French people all the terrors of a siege.

France has piled one stupidity on another, and now she is about to PAY.

IN THIS country the same cunning, sinister forces that have been working for the disintegration of France are at work here.

THEY HAVE BEEN AT WORK HERE FOR THREE YEARS.

In a fatuous moment we concluded a treaty with Russia after recognizing her as a friendly government WHICH SHE IS NOT!

We have under the Roosevelt Administration coddled THE SAME SUBVERSIVE FORCES THAT HAVE UNDERMINED FRANCE.

We have in high public positions visionary "Internationalists" and Socialists with Russian minds whose policies DIFFER IN NO VITAL MANNER FROM THOSE OF LEON BLUM AND THE FRANCO-RUSSIAN COMMUNISTS WHO HAVE BROUGHT THE SPECTRE OF STARVATION, AND EVEN CIVIL WAR BEFORE THE FRENCH PEOPLE.

The people of France are now paying for apostasy to their traditions.

WE ALSO HAVE PAID DEARLY FOR AN APOSTASY TO OUR TRADITIONS FOR THREE LONG YEARS.

And our fate may be that of France UNLESS THE AMERICAN PEOPLE COME TO THEIR SENSES AND REPUDIATE OUR LEON BLUMS.

The National Defense

In the Air

THIS year's appropriations by Congress have provided the Army and Navy with additional funds for augmenting their respective air forces.

It was high time for this to be done.

True, our naval aviation has been at least the equal of any other in the world.

But new ships—which America has to build—require MORE naval aviation; and, on land, despite the urgent warnings of both the Baker and Morrow Reports, previous Congresses had neglected grievously to provide for the Army's aviation needs—had, in fact, allowed DETERIORATION to set in.

This country is far down AMONG THE WEAKER COUNTRIES this year—and will continue to be so next year.

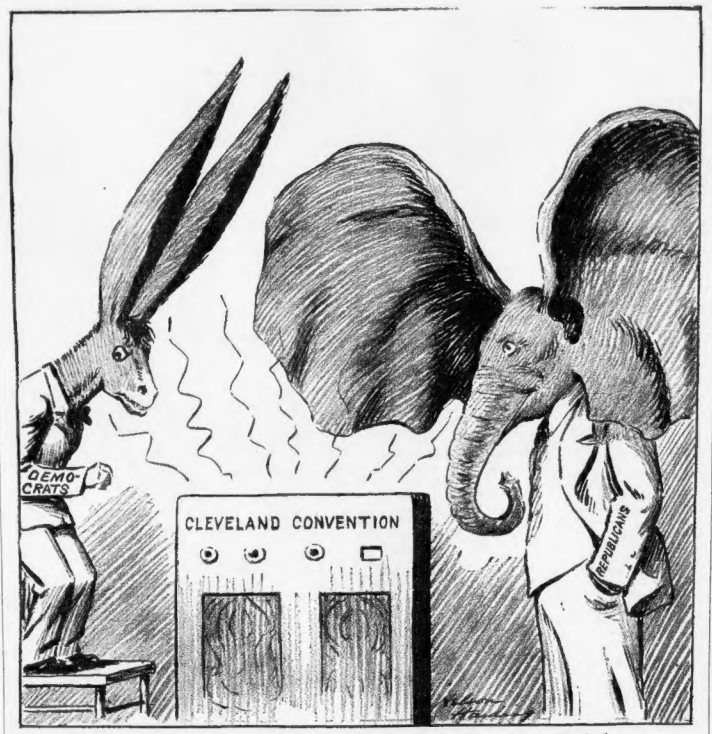
All of the other Powers are rapidly INCREASING their air combat forces, while our efforts amount to LITTLE MORE THAN REPLACEMENTS.

According to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, this country—at the rate of construction under way in April—will, in January, 1937, occupy only FIFTH PLACE in aerial combat strength among the seven important nations.

America, with the LONGEST COASTLINES and the RICHEST CITIES in the world to defend, should be FIRST and not LEAST in the air.

All Ears!

By Nelson Harding

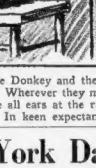


The Donkey and the Elephant
Wherever they may be,
Are all ears at the radio
In keen expectancy.

They're all tuned in on Cleveland.
One hopes, the other fears
To hear who's who and what is what
They stretch attentive ears.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre



O. O. McIntyre

New York, June 11—Dwight Deere Wiman is the dilettante of the theatrical producers. And what is more, has a flair for the theater that has resulted in several hits. This year's musical sensation, "On Your Toes," is one of his brewings. The ingredients are his personal selections.

Dwight is, as Ring Lardner might say, of "the Deere people" and has always luxuriated a silk stockinged sheen. The stage became a hobby when he was in college and everything about it, from star to flyman, has always absorbed him. He was, in a hyphenated word, stage-struck.

Long before he dabbled in the production end he was one of the immaculate first nighters, the ardent sort who drifted to the stage entrance afterward merely to see the players file out. Aside from John Hay Whitney he was the most heavily bankrolled entrepreneur.

As cultured a producer as New York has ever known was the aristocratic Bostonian, Winthrop Ames. His office had the serenity of a savant's cloister. He espoused the Little Theater and was successful. The most outspoken and least affected of the guild is the veteran Al Woods.

Such a keen observer of the stage as Robert E. Sherwood declares the most thoroughly stage-struck performers he has ever known are Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt. Every performance to them is The Great Adventure, whether played in New York or Hohokus. Their life work is to put on a show—and they do it both on and off.

Their quirks of vanity, their feigned indifference to critics are all a part of their act. And they are people of almost the precisely taut temperaments who have made marriage a rousing success.

New York's most consistent mayoralty heckler is a tituppy 81-year-old, partly deaf man by the name of Stewart Brown. He has badgered every mayor since and including John Purroy Mitchel. He is president of a real estate organization and his hecklings usually take place at the Board of Estimate meetings.

Twice he has been picked up bodily, upon orders of the mayors, and carried from the room. Usually kicking and squealing with vigor. Often they have thought of barring him, but he threatens court proceedings and has his way.

Most people who are targets for heckling loss their temper, which is defeat. Bryan in early days was frequently interrupted from the audience. He always stopped and bowed his head as in prayer, and this put the launter on the defensive, for the audience, always for an underdog, booed him down. Still, the most adroit parrier of a heckler's thrusts was Julius Tannen. He went after them hammer and tongs, and always won.

No one wangels more fun out of the business of free lancing than Charles Phelps Cushing. He is an alumnus of the Kansas City Star and for 20 years has been wandering the metropolis with camera and notebook. Sometimes he discovers surprising photographic shots or runs across material that can be made into a saleable article.

A bachelor, he has no boss and works and loafs as the mood seizes. One of the lucky few who makes money making his own assignments.

Study in persistence. For two years now the Boston has spent most of his waking hours hunting for mice without catching or, so far as is known seeing one.

Thinumbobs: Young Alfred Vanderbilt is a sucker for T-bone steaks . . . The highly publicized Tommy Manville does not keen a scrap book . . . There is a Fannie Hurst Fan Club in Hawaii . . . Raquel Meller is having a comeback in Berlin with her old violet song . . . Julia Sanderson laughs that way away from the radio, too . . . Ben Ames Williams writes swell poetry but won't market it.

Lord Fauntleroy in revolt: The 5-year-old son of a neighbor brought a corner policeman to his apartment door and, pointing to his mother, exclaimed: "Arrest her, lock her up and keep her until she cuts off my curls!"

The Buddhist Lamas

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Edwin C. Hill

About one-third of the human race is Buddhist in religion. Within the last few years, in the contention of the lamas of North and South Tibet, and in the foreign intrigue in which they were involved, there have been battles in the clouds, the rising of lamaseries and the rising of desert tribesmen on the plains of Mongolia—wars too remote and involved to get clearly into the ken of the day's news, but of tremendous, possibly critical significance in the world alignments of empire.

THE NEW BUDDHA

Russia, Great Britain, Japan and China have financed and bolstered up this lama or that, to build a buffer state in Tibet, to further or to hinder devious pan-Asiatic schemes, to gain access to raw materials or mineral wealth, to shore up empire or tear it down.

In Japan, 94 per cent of the people are Buddhists. Japan invites 13 lamas to Tokio and entertains them with impressive ceremonies, while China engages the Panchen-Lama to stage devil dances to drive out the Japanese.

So perhaps the knuckle-raps of the wise men on the door of a peasant hut are the drum beats of destiny. The seers call to tell the peasant woman that her infant son has been found to be the "Living Buddha," the "Glorious King" who is to succeed the Dalai-Lama, ruler of South Tibet who died Dec. 17, 1933.

Since then the search for the divine infant has been carried on by priests, sages, monks and philosophers, through incantations and mystic clues. It was an image on the surface of the sacred Chugykhorgyae Lake near Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, which guided them to the hut, where, the diviners had told them, they would find a child, a reincarnation of the Dalai-Lama. They learned the child had been born at the hour of the Dalai-Lama's death. They proclaimed him the new Buddha.

When the great Kanachu, founder of Yellow Lamanism, died, he left North Tibet to the Panchen-Lamas and South Tibet to the Dalai-Lamas. The last Dalai-Lama was the 13th of his line, living to the rare old age of 57. All his predecessors had died before they were 20.

COMES BACK HOME

Twenty-nine years ago, Great Britain sent Colonel Younghusband to penetrate the Forbidden City, on which the gaze of white men never had rested. With his first glimpses of British bayonets, the Dalai-Lama fled to China, with a vast and regal entourage. He had 400 servants, 200 ponies and 500 camels. China claimed the overlordship of Tibet and extended him generous hospitality.

It cost China $5000 a day. He traveled a great deal with his entire following. The Dalai-Lama's religion forbade him or any of his train to pass under an arch. All over China, they were busy tearing down and building up the ached gateways of old cities. They began calling the Dalai-Lama "the human locust."

Signing a treaty of trade and commerce with the British, a treaty which virtually gave them Tibetan rule, he was officially designated as Dalai-Lama Ngag-Wang Lobsany Thibdon Gya-Tsho.

After the Russian revolution, the Dalai-Lama was supposed to be pretty thick with the Soviets and was believed to be close in with Borodin, when he almost Sovietized China in 1928. But, whatever his activities, he was cautious about it, and all the powers, shouldering their way up the Himalayas, could be sure of only one thing—a deep fog of intrigue and uncertainty.

The Panchen-Lama of North Tibet, a plump little man with a drooping mustache, resembling an amiable American cross-roads grocer, got somewhat the worst of it in his continuous battling with the Dalai-Lama, with desperate encounters on the high wind-swept slopes of the Himalayas, and was finally exiled to China. In 1931, the Chinese were paying him $588,000 a year to consolidate the Tibetan border states, to fan up pro-Chinese sentiment among the Buddhists of the world and, above all, to exercise the Japan invasion by ardent and potent incantations.

SKILLED IN INTRIGUE

They provided him with a beautiful yellow train and a yellow Rolls-Royce, both upholstered in yellow plush. With his huge and expensive entourage, he put on his axe dance, lasting for weeks, with more than 2,000 men whirling big battle axes like pinwheels. This devil dance, with wild contortions and exercisms, was supposed to blast the Japanese right out of China, but something went wrong. The Japanese kept right on boring in, and these Chinese lifted the Panchen-Lama off the national payroll.

But he still travels in state, and he still can talk business with frock-coated agents of the powers, who are mindful of the fact that there are 500,000,000 Buddhists in the world and that, with some of the underpinnings of empire slipping, all Asia is in flux and the rotund little Panchen-Lama is a symbol of solidity and fealty to many millions.

"Dear Govt."

By Winston Norman

CLEVELAND, JUNE 11.
DEAR MR. ROOSEVELT:

I got some big news for you, Mr. President, it is Thursday in Cleveland today. The republicans is going to pick out a Victim for you to run against, & everybody in the Convenshun is very excitted except the Deligates which have fell asleep.

In a few minnits they will begin to vote All of the 48 States will jump up on their hind legs and vote for who they are voteing for.

"Who are they voteing for?" I says to the man in the next chair, it turned out= he is the Deligate from the Sandwich Islands.

"Most of them is voteing for Landon," he says. "Gov. Landon is way out in front, and if he don't win, a lot of folks will be out behind."

The Deligate next to me has just drew up a Dope Sheet on how the candidates is running. So I am hearby incloseing it:

1 LANDON—Looks like the State of Kansas will spread all over the U. S. A.

2 KNOX—Running very hard, but don't look like he will catch anything but a Presidency.

3 BORAH—Still opposed to everything, has a fine chance of beating himself.

4 STEIWAR—Pretty skinny on votes, because nobody can spell his name.

5 VANDENBURG — A good dark horse, except that most folks still thinks Vandenburg is the name of a Dutch Cleanser.

6 DICKINSON—He is the next stop, in case passengers don't get off at Landonburg or Vandenburg.

7 HOOVER—Running very strong for another term as Ex-president of the U. S.

Well Mr. Roosevelt, there is the 7 candidates which wants to run against you. But there isn't only 1 which can get nominated, so I guess the other 6 will have to be Honorary Faulbearers.

Yours truly,
W. NORMAN.
